BRIDGE ISSUE DRAWS LIGHT VOTE TO NOON

City Is "Het Up" Over Issue, Nevertheless — Write Names On Ballots

Bridge problems were waved aside by a large number of indifferent voters Tuesday. The polling places in the various wards recorded an unusually light vote in the forenoon. Freezing temperatures and unshoveled walks kept back many women voters and also a number of men.

Nevertheless the city was stirred up over the bridge issue as it seldom is. It was the talk of nearly everyone in the business district. Persons of sporting blood were staking even money that both bridge referenda would be defeated 2 to 1. Others were betting 3 to 1 that the Cherry-st bridge issue would be lost. One man appeared in a local soft drink emporium and offered to bet $100 in favor of the Cherry-st bridge, but as far as known, the stake was not produced.

The contest for aldermen in some of the wards were a mere formality. Yet voters in the Second ward are understood to be writing in the name of J. L. Wolf in opposition to Alderman J. F. Lappen, who is opposed to the bridge program. It is reported that the name of Frank Bachman was being written in in the Third ward where Alderman C. F. Smith was the incumbent. In the Fourth ward, where R. F. McGowan was the only candidate, voters were said to be writing in the names of Abraham Danielson and Alderman William Murphy.

PIGGY WIGGLY STOCK GOES UP

Pool In Attempt To Squeeze Short Interests Is Hinted In Rise

BULLETIN
New York—Shortly after 2 o'clock Piggy Wiggly broke from 123 to 98.

New York—A sensational jump in the stock of Piggy Wiggly stores which had advanced on small volume of sales from Monday's close of 72 to 123 soon after noon Tuesday, brought dealers in that stock on the New York Stock exchange into renewed prominence.

An investigation of an alleged corner in Piggy Wiggly stock had recently been ordered by the stock exchange of New York and Chicago.

Tuesday's sensational jump carried the stock to new high levels for the year and followed the announcement in Memphis, Tenn. Monday of Clarence Saunders, president of the corporation that he had discontinued offers of stock on the installment payment at $5 a share. Soon after the opening Tuesday the stock ended at 92 1/2, a rise of more than 20 points over Monday's close and continued to advance from 3 to 5 points on each successive sale. Total sales early this afternoon were approximately only 5,000 shares.

Stock exchange officials refused to comment on the matter but it was generally reported that advance resulted from pool operations to squeeze short interests. The sensational advance of 51 points in the stock was founded on unconfirmed reports that the New York Stock exchange had found that no corner existed.

MAN ATTACKS TWO MADISON WOMEN

Madison—An unidentified man Monday night attacked the wives of two prominent business men of Madison while they were walking on east Gorham-st. in the residence section and escaped with jewels and money.

Mrs. Paul S. Warner, was held up and a diamond ring and money taken from her by the man. Mrs. David Wheeler, wife of a doctor, was knocked down and an attempt made to gag her, but she broke away and screamed, frightening the assailant.

Daugherty's Announcement of President's Intention to Seek Re-election Is Clarion Call to Republicans

Miami Beach, Fla.—Why did Attorney General Daugherty make at this time announcement of the candidacy of President Harding for renomination when the Republican National convention itself does not meet for more than a year?

The writers asked the attorney general that question and his immediate reply was to let the president's friends in the Republican party know what is coming and to challenge those who are not his friends.

FLORIDA TOWN TO ENTERTAIN HARDING

Fort Pierce, Fla.—This little city in the St. Lucie grape fruit district was all aflutter Tuesday in expectation of entertaining President Harding and his vacation party. The presidential party passed by Fort Pierce on the cruise down the Indian river ten days ago and there was great disappointment for elaborate plans had been made for the entertainment of President and Mrs. Harding and the course of the Fort Pierce golf and country club had been gone over with a curry comb.

The president then conferred the favor of his presence on Vero, a rival town fourteen miles north of here where lives a little Ohio colony. Tentative plans of the president Tuesday call for a stop here and then a resumption of the cruise towards St. Augustine.

Superior—A title transfer to Superior involving the three plants of the Superior Water, Light and Power company, has been ordered by the Wisconsin Railroad commission, according to information reaching here Monday night from Madison. The order will be received by mail Tuesday by City Clerk M. Beckley.

The proposition of buying the three plants was put up to the voters at the regular city election and they voted to purchase the plants.

See Blackmail Plot In Death Of Pretty Girl

By Associated Press
New York—The Dorothy Keenan murder case Tuesday developed a tip that the model had been slain for refusal to cooperate in a plot to blackmail the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," her elderly and wealthy admirer.

A score of detectives were dispatched to check up on confidential information received by the police to the effect that Miss Keenan had in her possession a package of letters from him.

This information came as a sensation after it had been reported that "Mr. Marshall" reputed to be a Boston man, kept his real name from the girl.

The letters from "Mr. Marshall" were said to have been in Miss Keenan's apartment on West Fifty-seventh-st. the night before she was found dead in bed with an empty chloroform bottle near by.

The originator of the blackmail plot was reported to have threatened Miss Keenan because of her refusal and she was said to have placed in her private vault at the National City bank at least one letter. The police said the box would be opened Tuesday.

TWO OF JURY IN BOMB CASE ILL

Trial Of Magnuson, Wood-co Farmer, Delayed As New Venire Is Called

Wisconsin Rapids—After having secured a complete jury during Monday's short session the Wood-co Circuit court which has before it the "Tule gift bomb" case which resulted in the death of Mrs. James J. Chapman and the arrest of John Magnuson, Mill Creek farmer, was to adjourn to call a special venire of 12 Tuesday due to the sudden illness late Monday evening of two jurors.

Fearing exhaustion of Monday's special venire, G. H. Bates, 72, a spectator, was called in to "fill in" only by Judge Byron B. Park. After examination, however, the aged man was selected as a juror despite the intention of the court that he should only be used to fulfill a court convention. Bates became severely ill at mid night and was taken to a local hospital where it is said he is resting easier Tuesday. The other case of illness occurred when Mrs. Anna Reddel, Marshfield, was stricken with appendicitis and rushed to an operating table of a Wisconsin Rapids hospital. She will recover, it was announced.

Due to the snow drifts on the country roads and wire trouble, the court experienced considerable trouble Tuesday in notifying the new venire. Adjournment was taken until the afternoon with only slight hopes of bringing together the necessary number. The state held a secret conference with its forty or fifty witnesses in the court room immediately after adjournment was taken.

WETS PLAN TO REVIVE BILL IN LEGISLATURE

Madison—Another battle between wet and dry forces of the legislature was scheduled for Wednesday in the assembly. Two bills which theoretically have been killed by the lower house will be reintroduced and an autopsy performed. They are the Tucker bill, repealing the state dry law, and the Mark bill permitting the use of standing bars in erstwhile saloons.

Wet leaders in the assembly hold the opinion that the fight last week which supposedly sent the Tucker bill to its death via the indefinite postponement route did not truly reflect the strength of the wet forces in the lower house. The measure could not have passed the senate, they say, and any extra effort to get it through the house would consequently have been wasted.

FORMER KU KLUX LEADER FAILS TO APPEAR IN COURT

Atlanta, Ga.—Edward Young Clarke, former acting imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, failed to appear for trial in the United States court Tuesday on charges of using the mails to defraud. His bond of $500 was ordered forfeited by Judge S. H. Sibley and it was stated that a bench warrant for his arrest would be issued later in the day.

OPEN REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN BLAINE RANKS

Recall Of Hanson Bill Is Big Bomb In Progressive Army

Madison—Insurgency is breaking out into the open among the La Follette Progressive forces of the assembly and Governor Blaine, over the taxation problem. There is evidence of a direct break between the executive and the leaders in the lower house who express their first allegiance to Senator LaFollette, rather than to the governor.

This insurgency is gradually creeping into the senate with the result that one leader in that house no longer hides his breath from the governor. An unwillingness to hedge on the tax issue, is given by the legislators as their reason for taking a different path from Governor Blaine.

2 OPPOSE BLAINE VISHI
The division broke out plainly in the assembly Monday when the Lower house voted without opposition to recall the Hanson bill, providing for repeal of the personal property tax off set from the income tax, from the taxation committee and place it on the calendar as a special order of business for Thursday. The governor had personally requested in two letters to the finance committee that consideration of this question be withheld until he could draft his tax bill.

By its action the lower house took a direct slap at the executive. This may be interpreted as a move Tuesday to reconsider this vote and again send the bill back to the committee, but there seems to be little likelihood that the assembly will change its mind.

RECOMES AN ISSUE
The personal property tax issue is becoming an outstanding issue. Speaker John L. Dahl, together with other leaders in the lower house, and members of the senate are strongly in favor of repealing the office, as recommended by the state tax commission for next year, and by Governor Blaine in his message of two years ago. They take the position that the governor could obtain removal of this section of the statutes if he would again take the stand that he did in 1921.

Instead he is reported to be impressed with the fact that the proposed repeal of the personal property tax would not get through the senate. To determine this question the assembly has called the Hanson bill to the floor. It intends to pass the measure Thursday night and immediately send it to the senate, where it will be referred to the corporations committee.

Senator Severson, chairman of this committee, will bulletin the proposal for an early hearing and have it sent to the floor recommended for passage. The result will be a definite lineup of the upper house on the question.

GOVERNOR WANTS TIME
The wish expressed by Governor Blaine that he be given time to draw up a tax bill of his own is not meeting with favor among the leaders who want to get the present session over with. They take the position that the governor has had ample time to shape his views and to express them to the legislature without having the session extended. Blaine on the other hand, feels that the two general tax bills now introduced, are not satisfactory to the people of the state. He wishes to shape up something of his own for presentation. As yet his ideas have not taken concrete form according to assemblymen who have been called into conference with him on the question.

Norfolk, Va.—The Italian steamship Giulia is in a sinking condition 560 miles east of Boston, according to wireless messages received at the coast guard station here. The message said the American Steamer *William F. The Giulia has a cargo of 183,931 bushels of wheat.

TODAY IS WINTER'S LAST OFFICIAL DAY

By Associated Press
Chicago—Winter's last day saw the entire upper Mississippi Valley in some parts enjoying fair weather digging itself out of snow drifts, and restoring transportation and communications. Railroads were busy working to clear their snowbound tracks and cities were clearing up their streets.

Iowa and Nebraska, where the excessive snowfall effectively blocked all forms of transportation, with deficits in some instances reaching a depth of 18 feet, gradually were returning to normalcy Tuesday.

BUILDING BURNS IN CHICAGO STOCK YARDS

Chicago—Firemen succeeded early Tuesday in preventing a spread of flames that destroyed the Mercury Manufacturing company, within the stockyards district. The loss was estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. The structure was a one story building 400 feet square.

WHAT SOLONS WANT TO DO

Madison—Four definite accomplishments are sought in the present session of Wisconsin legislature by Progressive Republican leaders, they let it be known Tuesday.

These four objectives are:

- 1—Drastic readjustment of the tax burden with a shift from general property to incomes.
- 2—Reapportionment of the cost of road building by placing a heavier burden upon the automobile owners and removing it from the general property taxpayers.
- 3—Cut in the national guard appropriation from $600,000 annually to $200,000 annually as an expression of Wisconsin opposition to militarism.
- 4—A short session to be adjourned sine die before the end of May.

Comprehensive bills covering all of these points and with the backing of leaders among the controlling faction in the legislature are already introduced. The session now resolves itself into a battle ground upon which the issues created by this program will be fought out. In the fight Governor Dillingham and the strictly LaFollette representatives in the legislature are expected to divide in their stand on some of the proposals, particularly taxation and the sweeping cut in the national guard appropriation.

Umbrella Is Ordered Out By Mr. Weather

Mr. and Mrs. Appleton, keep your galoshes on and if you are you'll die up the old bumbushoot. The weatherman, who is after some more March records and who doesn't give a snap about the fact that Wednesday is the first day of spring says in Tuesday's official forecast that rain or snow is probable for Tuesday night and Wednesday. Furthermore, he says it will be colder Wednesday, with strong shifting winds giving zephyr-like touches to the atmosphere.

That Old Man Winter is still capable of many a comeback is shown by the freezing temperature and the strong winds on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Persons who had hoped their present supply of coal would reach are now reconciled to the fact that although spring is officially here winter is not very far off.

Spring will be formally ushered in Wednesday at 10:29 in the forenoon for that is the time set for the vernal equinox. Summer is due this year on June 22 autumn on Sept. 23 and next winter on—well, let's not talk about that yet.

VOTE TO REPEAL EUGENICS LAW

Driving Many Couples Out Of State, Declares Solon In Assembly

Madison—Repeal of the Wisconsin Eugenics law, requiring an antenatal physical examination before issuance of a marriage license was voted by the assembly of the legislature Tuesday with endorsement of the Spoor bill. There was not a dissenting vote.

The Spoor bill would put an end to Eugenics law which has served as an object of attack in successive sessions of the legislature. Recently the senate refused to extend the scope of the statute to include women within the compulsory examinations.

Thousands of innocent couples are induced each year to leave the state to be married with resulting unjust reflection upon them, through operation of the eugenics law. Assemblyman Newcomb Spoor, author of the repeal bill said. He declared that Wisconsin ministers were losing large sums of money as a direct result of the law, which cuts the number of marriages consummated in the state while counties were losing additional amounts through a cut in the number of marriage licenses issued.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, Janesville, urged that the eugenics law be looked upon as an educational measure admitting its faults. His stand was not seconded by the lower house, however.

APPLETON IS AFFECTED BY LATEST VOTE

State Owned Buildings To Be Turned Over To Cities For School Purposes

Madison—The Wisconsin National guard received a second blow from the legislature Tuesday when the assembly voted 44 to 21 to terminate state aid for maintenance of armories and to turn over the eight state owned armories to the cities in which they are located for school and other purposes. This stand was taken by endorsement of a bill introduced by Assemblyman John Polakowski, Milwaukee Socialist author of the proposal to abolish the National guard which passed the assembly.

Eight armories in the state would be turned over to the cities in which they are located should the assembly action be concurred in by the senate. The property affected is located in Oconomowoc, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Marinette, Hudson, Clintonville, Abbottsford and Tomah.

VALUED AT $350,000
The value of real estate held by the state in these places is set at $350,000 by the adjutant general's office. In addition state aid amounting to thousands of dollars annually for rent and upkeep of armories in practically all cities maintaining National guard companies, would be stopped, providing the bill becomes a law.

In defense of the bill Frank Weber, Milwaukee, Socialist declared that unless the state put an end to its aid for military purposes the armories of the state would soon outnumber the schools.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, Janesville, opposed the bill and moved its indefinite postponement but this was voted down.

ARMORY OWNED HERE

Appleton's armory is not state owned, so the effect of the assembly's action is not as deeply felt here as in the cities mentioned. The east College Ave military structure belongs to Appleton Regimental association, an organization made up of local military and business men.

However, the state pays the association several hundred dollars each year toward maintenance of the building because of its use by Company D 127th infantry, and this support probably will be withdrawn if the present bill becomes a law.

WOULD SLASH FUNDS

Madison—Repeal of the $600,000 continuing appropriation to the Wisconsin National guard is called for in a bill prepared for introduction into the legislature Tuesday by Senator H. J. Severson, Iowa. This measure opens the fight for a severe reduction in the legislature's grant of funds to the state military establishment.

Senator Severson explained in connection with his bill that by repealing the continuing appropriation the Progressive Republican leaders in the legislature would be in a position to carry out their agreement to allow the guard a $200,000 annual appropriation instead of $600,000 now granted.

"This allowance would equal that given the guard in Iowa, Minnesota and Indiana," Senator Severson said. "There is no reason why Wisconsin should spend more than these states particularly when claiming to be a state opposed to militarism. My bill repeals the present appropriation of $600,000 and paves a way for a reduced grant."

OREGON DEBATERS MEET LAWRENCE TEAM TOMORROW

Students On Long Eastern Swing To Meet Local Negative Group

Big preparations are being made at Lawrence college for the debate which will take place on Wednesday evening with Willamette university team from Salem, Ore., which is located on the Pacific coast. The debate will take place in Peabody hall and will be followed by a reception for the debaters. The public is invited to attend the debate, for which no admission is charged.

Appleton is the furthest point in the eastern trip which the Oregon team is making. Besides paying the expenses of the team and furnishing them entertainment while here, Lawrence is agreeing to pay $50 toward the general expenses of the trip. The agreement was made with the understanding that a like arrangement will be made by Willamette next year when the Lawrence team makes its trip to the coast. Contracts of this kind are what make the long trips possible every other year for the colleges which have strong debate teams.

SALEM MEN
Four Willamette men including Ward Southworth, Rodney W. Alden, Robert Notson and Robert C. Little, will come to Lawrence early Wednesday morning and remain until Thursday noon. All these men are graduates of the Salem, Ore. high school and have had considerable experience. Mr. Southworth is a freshman and is the alternate of the team while Mr. Alden and Mr. Little have had a year's experience on Willamette teams and Mr. Notson has had two years' experience. P. M. Erickson is the coach of the teams, but he is not on the trip.

The schedule of debates for the eastern team shows that it will make an extended trip. On Saturday the men debated North Dakota university and on Monday, Gustavus Adolphus. No report has been received of the results.

GO TO CHICAGO

The team will go from Lawrence to Chicago and will meet Wheaton college in Illinois on March 22. University of Arizona on March 23. University of Redlands at Redlands, Calif., on March 24 and the College of the Pacific at San Jose on April 4. From there the men will go to Oakland and then back to Salem. It is the Lawrence negative team composed of Karl Trever, Dan Hardt and Willard Henoch which will meet the western team. This same team will debate with Macalester at Lawrence on Thursday evening. The Macalester debate will be the last of the season.

KIDNAPER BLIGHTS TWO HOMES; FLEES

Nationwide Search Is Made For Mrs. T. M. Jenkins And Stolen Baby

Special To Post-Crescent
Vicksburg, Miss.—A woman with bobbed reddish locks, her coat collar turned up high to conceal her features, not long ago boarded a train here and headed north for an unknown destination. She carried in her arms a three-month-old baby. As she fled, she looked furtively behind her as if fearing pursuit. To those on the train who took a kindly interest in the child she gave suspicious glances and silence.

The woman according to charges made to the police here, was a kidnaper. She was leaving in her wake the broken hearts of a mother and father and a disrupted home and a disillusionment for her own husband. This woman—she is 30 five feet six inches tall and of sallow complexion—is the central figure in the most unusual true story of love, motherhood and human hearts ever known in this region.

MOTHER BECOMES ILL
The mother became seriously ill. Hospital attaches told her she could not leave the institution for many weeks.

Time dragged. Mrs. Graham had no friends in Natchez. So no visitors came. Finally came one. A friendship developed. Her visits became more frequent.

The visitor called herself Mrs. Gibson. She said she lived at Vicksburg and her husband owned a plantation.

"Why don't you let me take your baby home with me?" the new friend finally asked. "I'll care for her until your husband returns and you are well."

The mother was reluctant. Then she decided motherlike, to consider self last and let the baby go where it could have better care.

Dave rolled on and Graham came back from California eager to gaze for the first time at his first-born.

CAN'T FIND WOMAN
With his wife now recovered, he went to Vicksburg to obtain the child.

But no Mrs. Gibson could be found.

The police were called on. They were powerless. Private detectives were hired. Advertisements were inserted in newspapers.

After weeks of disappointment a clew led the parents to Carr, Miss. There they found the woman who had taken away the baby.

She was, according to a complaint filed with the police, Mrs. T. M. Jenkins, wife of a logging man.

Mrs. Jenkins explained, according to the Graham's that she had taken the child that she might tell her husband it was her own, born while he was absent.

She refused to yield the child until Mr. and Mrs. Graham would go to the husband and explain the deception. They rushed to Vicksburg and secured a writ of habeas corpus.

But when they returned—the woman was gone and, with her, the baby.

This was followed three hours later by a mail train from Escanaba. The first northbound mail to reach the city in 24 hours came on the Northwestern at about 10:30 Monday evening.

All scheduled trains on the North western road were again operating on Tuesday morning. A train due here at 8:25 came about two hours late. No passenger trains arrived on the Soo Line or on the Milwaukee road. A snow plow on the Milwaukee road was opening a way for trains to enter sometime this afternoon. TELLS DADS VALUE OF 'GYM' COURSE

John Silvernale Believes Children's Success Depends On Recreation

John Silvernale, well-known advocate of physical education, who is affiliated with the Menominee, Mich. schools, spoke to 75 members of the Fathers Association of Appleton High school on Monday evening on the value of physical education. Mr. Silvernale has five children of his own, all of whom are either in high school now or have been in the past few years, and so he was able to talk to the men as one father to another.

He said that in the Menominee junior and senior high schools the courses are fixed so that one-fifth of the students are always in the gymnasium or on the playgrounds. He said that they have worked out a system of having squad leaders among the older students who are supervisors for the younger ones, thus enabling the students not only how to play themselves but how to direct others how to play.

When the Menominee school was built about one-fourth of the cost of the building was put into physical education equipment because that city has become convinced that a trained mind in a sick body is of little use to the community. Mr. Silvernale told them that he had never been greatly interested in physical education and recreation until his children got to the age where they needed it. The physical education work in his school begins with the junior high school and continues through the entire course until the student has been graduated from the senior high school.

SAVE $102,000 BY CLOSING ORDNANCE DEPOT AT SPARTA

War Department Is Exercising
Economy By Evacuation
Of Stations

Special to Post-Crescent
Washington—The war department will save $102,015.88 in the coming year through the abandonment of the army ordnance depot at Sparta, Wisconsin. Secretary of War Weeks announces.

The government expects to obtain $35,793 from the sale of surplus material at Sparta. It will transfer $5-029,523.03 worth of surplus at Sparta to other government departments. The plant there is to be turned over for use as a target range.

Eleven other ordnance depots and plants will be completely evacuated before June 30, it was announced by Major Williams, chief of ordnance.
In a report to Assistant Secretary Davis, acting secretary of war. The other depots are the ordnance reserve depots at Anatol, N. J.; Middleton, Pa.; Penniman, Va.; Seven Pines, Va.; Toledo, Ohio; Tullytown, Pa., and Woodbury, N. J., the storage depot at Chicago; the Erie, Pa. Howitzer plant; the general ordnance depot at Morgan, N.
J., and the Rochester, N. J. gun plant.
The evacuation is made possible by an appropriation of $1,442,351, authorized by congress in order that the war department might transfer its war reserve stores from these establishments to strategically located depots of more permanent construction.

The closing down of the twelve temporary establishments, it was said, would reduce the annual operating expenses of the ordnance department by $680,480 a year. The twelve abandoned stations are to be sold, along with surplus property valued at several million dollars.

INVITE FOUNDERS TO HEISS CONTEST

High School Issues Invitations
To Members Of Class
Of 1916

Members of the class of 1916 which gave the prize for the Heiss oratorical contest, scheduled to take place at Appleton high school on Friday evening, are being sent invitations to attend the event. The invitations which are being sent out by Miss Ruth Saecker, a member of the class who is now a teacher in Appleton high school, will go to every part of the country from China to Washington, D. C.

Miss Saecker is assisting with the details of the contest and it is hoped that every member of the class and of all other classes who knew William Heiss for whom the contest was originated as a memorial will be present. Harry Clark has charge of the coaching of the orators.

William Heiss graduated from Appleton high school in 1915 as the valedictorian of his class and went with Company C to France. He was killed in France and his class has endowed the contest in his memory. The orations must be on some current topic because Mr. Heiss was always interested greatly in affairs of the country.

U. S. TAX OFFICE IN CITY HALL IS CLOSED

The local office of the United States internal revenue department in the city hall is again closed after nearly two months of steady work in cleaning up delinquent income tax returns and in the receiving of 1922 returns.
Miss Ethel M. Hillburg, deputy revenue collector, who was in charge of the local office, returned to Milwaukee yesterday. A successor to George P.
Fench as deputy collector in the Appleton zone has not yet been appointed.

Delinquent federal income tax returns are to be made direct to the Milwaukee revenue office.

Tuesday evening at the office of Charles F. Behnke, Oshkosh. The instructor will be T. O. F. Randolph of

His subject will be "Accommodation."
Several Appleton members are planning to attend the meeting.

TIRE PRICES WILL GO UP SOON, DEALERS TOLD

Automobile tire dealers here have been notified that an advance in the price of tires can be expected about April 1. Reports from Akron indicate the raw material prices have increased from 1 1/2 to 15 per cent in the last few weeks. The labor cost of making tires also is going up rapidly.

1,200 Badger Indians Earning Profit Through Menominee Timber Tract

Lumber And Oil Reserves Held In Trust By Government
Keeping Red Men Out Of Pauper Class—Late Laws
Protect

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington—Lo, the poor Indian lives exactly in the pauper class, the one subjected to Dr. Elbert Work, the new secretary of interior show.
Dr. Work has begun a study of Indian Affairs to enable him to better administer his office.

Petroleum and lumber are the two biggest money makers for the Red Skins. Oil has made the Osage Indians of Oklahoma, the wealthiest nation of people in the world.

The three hundred odd Indians own 35,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber, worth at least $100,000,000 and the young growth and the land they stand on represent $30,000,000 more.
If this forest wealth were equally divided, every Indian in the country would have about $4,300 of forest wealth.

Wisconsin is not looked upon by the country as an "Indian" State. But on the Menominee reservation in Wisconsin Chippewas still own a billion feet of hard and soft timber, which is recognized the finest timber remaining in the Badger state.

OPERATE SAWMILL

As a rule the Indian Forest Service contents itself with disposing of the Indian timber to contractors who make such disposition of it as they wish. But in the case of the Menominee reservation in Wisconsin the Indian service took control of a large sawmill in 1910, and approximately 30,000 feet of lumber and other timber products have been manufactured there annually. The net proceeds from this logging and milling operation during twelve years has been approximately $2,000,000. The mill, logging road and logging equipment are valued at more than $1,000,000. The proceeds belong to 1,200 Indians. From 1894 to 1921 the J. S. Stearns Lumber Company paid to the Bad River Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin, $7,000,000 for 1,263,000,000 feet of timber.

Many Wisconsin Indians themselves are employed in logging activities. The regulations make it imperative for loggers in the Indian forest to employ Indians preferably wherever they are available and fitted for the work.

Oregon is at the top of the list of Indian timber states, followed in relative order by Washington, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Wisconsin, California, Idaho and Minnesota. In Oregon the timber wealth of the Klamath Indians is $25,000 per capita.

LUMBER STOLEN

The Indian bureau of the department of interior asserts that during the last quarter of the nineteenth century many millions of feet of timber were removed from Indian reservations in the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota without proper supervision of the cutting and without adequate protection of the interests of the Indians. Congress provided no funding for protection or for the development of a system of merchandising timber.
In fact at that time there was no legal authority for the sale of timber other than that derivable from the natural right of the Indians to sustain themselves by the use of the land and timber of their reservations. There is no doubt that, especially in these two states, large quantities of timber were sold by the Indians for a song.

Since the establishment of the Indian forestry service in 1910 the Indian lands have been administered according to a policy of reconciling forestry principles with the present economic interests of the Indians. The reservation forestry problem is not just the same as that of the national forests, for it must be remembered that the Indian forests are private property of the Indians held in trust for them by the United States government.

LITTLE CHANGE IN FARM LAND VALUES

Nyh's Report Shows Average
Of Wisconsin Lands Same
As Last Year

Madison—Farm land values in Wisconsin on March 1 are almost identical with the values a year ago. Paul Nyhus, of the state crop reporting service, announced. The conclusions are based upon estimated values of farm lands by a crop of 2,000 farmers and in all parts of the state acting as reporters to the department of agriculture.

The average value of all plow lands in Wisconsin is placed at $86 per acre.
This value is 12 below the 1916 value, which was given at $74 per acre. The peak of land values in Wisconsin was reached in 1920, when farmers reported an average of $100 per acre for plow lands. The 1923 figure, accordingly, indicates a drop in land values in Wisconsin of approximately 13 per cent of the values that prevailed in 1920. The fact that Wisconsin land values were not inflated to the same extent as they were in many of the corn belt states has made unnecessary the extreme drop in values that has occurred in some of the corn belt states.

All farm land with improvements is valued at $113 per acre as compared to $114 last year. Farm land without improvement is valued at $78 per acre—
the same as last year.

The average value of outlands in 24
northern counties of the state is reported to be $22 per acre. The 1922

ONLY EXPERTS GET REVENUE POSITIONS

Examination April 7 Requires 4-Year Experience In Accounting

Uncle Sam is raising still higher his requirements for internal revenue accountants, according to word received by Herman J. French, local secretary of the civil service board. An examination is to be held on April 7
throughout the country for auditor, income tax unit, and calls for a four year commercial accounting experience as a prerequisite, which doubles the former experience requirement. Those who qualify are given additional training at government expense and a preliminary work period under supervision.

The government is making an effort to have tax returns examined and taxes assessed by a body of thorowly competent accountants, in order that the returns may be audited with speed and accuracy. Further informa-

The bids were opened at Juneau, the

THE POST-CRESCENT'S PROGRAM FOR A GREATER APPLETON

In connection with the movement for a Greater Appleton launched by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, The Post-Crescent today at the head of its editorial columns announces its program for a greater city. Appleton is a city of ideals and its greatest ideal is to be the ideal city, including within itself everything good that a city should have. The program outlined herewith includes only the major necessities of Appleton. There are many minor problems which need solution but they can easily be taken care of after disposition has been made of the larger matters.

The first plank in the Post-Crescent's platform for a greater city is that bridges be built at Lawe street and at Cherry street and that their construction and financing be arranged on the basis of sound business principles. This is not a new attitude on the part of this newspaper. It has often said that more bridges are necessary and that Cherry street and Lawe street are the most desirable locations for them. It also has contended that the construction of these bridges might involve the city in grave difficulties unless the method of financing is on a sound business basis.

The attitude of the Post-Crescent has been misinterpreted and misrepresented in the campaign previous to the referendum on bridges which is being held today. However, misinterpretation and misrepresentation does not alter facts. This newspaper is for the Cherry street and the Lawe street bridges but is opposed to the proposed method of paying for them and resents the attitude of the council which failed to present all the facts and figures bearing on the bridge problem. The Post-Crescent is committed to a program of these two bridges regardless of the result of the referendum today.

The second plank in the Post-Crescent platform for a greater Appleton advocates a city manager form of government. This proposal is founded on a study of the experience of the many cities that have adopted the managerial form of government. This survey has proved conclusively that this method is far superior to either aldermanic or commission rule for cities. Government by a city manager, assisted and supported by a commission of citizens, elected without regard to ward lines and serving without pay, appears to us to be the ideal method of operating a city. It is based on principles that have been proven sound by great corporations everywhere.

The managerial form of government plank in its program for a Greater Appleton is not a reflection on the ability of the present city administration. It is an expression of its belief, however, that the city's business can best be administered by a city manager.

For many years Appleton has been struggling with the problem of providing adequate school facilities for its young people. The board of education, backed up by the opinion of education experts, has decided that two junior high schools will take care of the city's needs. The common council has authorized a bond issue of $425,000 to build these schools but that amount of money is not sufficient to equip them with gymnasiums, which educators hold to be necessary to the development of sound bodies and minds. The Post-Crescent believes that the opinions of men and women who have made careful study of educational problems should be accepted and that properly equipped gymnasiums are essential to a complete program of education. Therefore this newspaper is committed to a program of two junior high schools, adequately equipped to give the greatest service.

Thousands of dollars are expended in Outagamie county every year in an effort to eradicate disease from cattle and crops and to improve the quality of the county's farm products. The Post-Crescent believes this to be commendable but it also believes that some provision should be made to protect the health of the county's people so that the quality of its citizenship can be improved. A competent health nurse, provided with sufficient funds to carry on her work efficiently is as necessary to the health of the county as an agricultural agent is to the success of farming. The city of Appleton also has been directed in its care of the sick and the needy. It has a duty of providing assistance to families whose circumstances make it impossible to help themselves. A county nurse and a city nurse are necessary to a fully developed citizenship and to the ideal city, and the Post-Crescent believes they should be engaged without loss of any more time.

Failure of the city to adequately mark city streets and provide a sensible system of numbering has been the source of much unfavorable criticism of Appleton by strangers and home people alike. It is doubtful if there is any city in Wisconsin where less attention has been given to this important detail in city administration. Appleton, to develop into a Greater City, must take action at once in this matter. The Post-Crescent believes that the common council can do much to enhance the impression Appleton makes upon its guests by proceeding at once to properly mark the streets and adopt a sensible system of house numbering.

The program for a Greater Appleton outlined by the Post-Crescent, we believe, can be put into effect without difficulty. The city to be truly great must provide the conveniences and advantages which make it a desirable city in which to live and to make a living. The Post-Crescent believes that when the program as outlined today is adopted Appleton will approach the ideal city. We have touched only briefly the planks in the platform for a greater city and more will be said about them later.

THE TRUTH ABOUT INCOME TAX RETURN PUBLICITY

The persistent attempt of the Blaine administration, which is about to culminate successfully, to throw income tax returns open to the public and to subject the confidential facts reported in these returns by corporations concerning their business to the curiosity of Tom, Dick and Harry, as well as to the prying eyes of competitors, is now revealed in its true light, namely a contrivance of politicians to curry favor with the people through unscrupulous demagoguery. When this idea was first broached it was defended on the ground that it would automatically correct, to a great extent, the withholding of income by careless or dishonest taxpayers, and that it would bring to the state millions upon millions of dollars of concealed revenue. In fact, this was the only substantial reason given for the repeal of the so-called secrecy clause. Mr. Blaine had a great deal to say about tax evasion and the need for publicity of incomes to stop it. It was because of his charges and claims that the agitation finally made headway and was accepted, so the Blaine administration asserts, by the people at the election last November.

As the law now stands, the state tax commission and any other authorized official having to do with taxation and the protection of the state against fraud, has complete access to income tax returns. Not only this but the state is empowered to go behind these returns and make audits and investigations to ascertain their correctness. The state tax commission has been spending some $65,000 annually for these investigations. Now that repeal of the secrecy clause is assured and income tax returns are to be published to the world, do we find Mr. Blaine's absurd claim that this exposure will stop fraud substantiated? If it were substantiated it would follow that the spending of large sums of money for investigation by the tax commission would be unnecessary. Honesty would be imposed by throwing the flood of daylight upon income tax returns. Instead, however, of doing away with investigations or of even reducing the appropriations to continue them the tax commission wants larger appropriations.

The state board of public affairs has recommended that the appropriations be fixed at $65,000 yearly. The senate finance committee has raised the amount to $70,000. In the assembly, an administration representative proposed an amendment to increase the amount to $100,000 annually. This assemblyman, A. E. Smith of Vernon county, quoted a member of the tax commission as having stated that that body could use $150,000 annually to get at the bottom of tax returns. This commissioner is said to have been Judge Ross, whose utterances in the campaign last fall indicated that he had unlimited faith in the powers of the secrecy clause repeal to remedy tax dodging. Still another member of the tax commission is quoted as saying that $200,000 annually ought to be used to probe returns.

How are these frank admissions to be reconciled with the alleged benefits that were to come from publicity of income tax returns? It is of course clear that they cannot be reconciled. There never was any intention to reconcile this piece of political chicanery with the facts. Mr. Blaine knew, the state tax commission knew, and everybody else knew that repeal of the secrecy clause would not bring one penny of additional revenue to the state or enforce honesty in any greater degree upon taxpayers in making their returns. The real purpose of this proposal is to inflame class hatred in Wisconsin, to stir up trouble between solvent enterprise and the public, to raise differences between employers and employees and to promote social radicalism. It is merely one of the many moves the administration is making to discredit Wisconsin in the eyes of the nation and to injure it commercially and industrially. It is the kind of demagoguery that if persisted in will end with ruinous consequences.

THE LAXATIVE TABLET

When I published the contents of the medicine cupboard here a while ago I gave as item No. 23, "One hundred one grain phenolphthalein tablets," that being my one best bet as a comparatively harmless family laxative.

A good doctor has taken me to task for suggesting phenolphthalein, for he reminds me that this medicine has occasionally produced untoward and even alarming poisonous effects. It is true enough. But occasionally Epsom salts has produced alarming untoward effects too, and for that matter, I suppose we might find reports of records of similar untoward or poisonous effects from every medicine in the modern materia medica. There are on record several instances of unpleasant or alarming effects from phenolphthalein taken as a laxative but in every such instance the amount of the medicine taken was beyond reason. I still maintain that phenolphthalein used as I am here advising, is as safe and unobjectionable as any other laxative we have; this assurance is founded on ample experience with the medicine.

A well regulated household seldom finds occasion for laxatives. Good hygiene is the best "regulator," or to express it more accurately, when good hygiene prevails there is no unnatural restraint upon or interference with functional activity. Constipation or costiveness, apart from actual organic defect or disease, it must be remembered is always due to some artificial inhibition, restraint or hindrance incident to unhygienic civilized life. Neither savages nor animals in their natural environment have such trouble.

When, in doubt whether to take a physic, it is far better not to take any. The wholesome way to consider this problem, I am sure, is that even the least objectionable of physics is a greater evil than some discomfort or even slight illness for a day or two. As a people we have suffered infinitely more from physics than from the real or imaginary ailments which the physics purported to prevent or cure.

If you would cultivate good health, give the intestinal function absolute freedom. Do not insult the delicately co-ordinated mechanism with cathartics without just cause and provocation. In no way do we display our ignorance or physiology and hygiene and our childlike gullibility so grotesquely as in our readiness to swallow any known or unknown nostrum which purports to "regulate" the bowel, "purify" the blood or "correct" the liver. Every schoolboy should know that no medicine under heaven does such things. Mind, however, I deem drugs indispensable in the treatment of many disease conditions, and that includes carious physios. In discouraging the use of physics I am speaking to well people, not to people who are or should be under medical care.

Child or adult may take one or two grains of phenolphthalein when a mild laxative is required, preferably in the form of a lozenge or tablet of sugar, chocolate, cocoa, or flavored with wintergreen (phenolphthalein is almost tasteless), which should be masticated thoroughly.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Tuesday, March 23, 1898

Food Law Still Binds Hebrews

(Will C. Barnes in The Producer.)

Stockmen and farmers who read the livestock market reports often run across such statements as: "Three cars of heavy steers, suitable for kosher trade, brought top prices;" or "Trade in forequarters depressed on account of Jewish holiday; no kosher demand." Probably a majority of them have but a faint idea as to just what the word kosher means beyond the bald fact that it relates to some requirement of the Jewish religion. Research has brought to light a mass of information which should be of interest to all meat producers and, incidentally, to meat eaters.

In so far as the Jews are concerned, the regulations concerning the eating of meat of all kinds—"fish, flesh and fowl"—are found in what is generally known as the ancient "Mosaic law," which is said to have been handed down to Moses and Aaron by Jehovah himself, and by them to the children of Israel. These injunctions are scattered through the books of Deuteronomy and Leviticus, and other portions of the Old Testament.

VITAL PORTIONS OF LAW

The following extracts are given as covering the vital portions of the law: And Jehovah spoke unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto them: Speak unto the children of Israel, saying: These are the things which ye may eat among all the beasts that are upon the earth: Thou mayest kill and eat flesh

... after all the desire of thy soul ... only ye shall not eat the blood; thou shalt pour it upon the earth as water ... for the blood is the life, and thou shalt not eat the life with the flesh.

These are the beasts which ye shall eat: The ox, the sheep, the goat, the hart, the gazelle, the roebuck, the fallow deer, the wild goat, the pygmy, the antelope and the chamois. And every beast that parteth the hoof and hath the hoof divided into and cheweth the cud among the beasts. (Lev., 11, Deut., 14.)

The practical effect of this definition was to class all beasts of prey as unclean. And swine were vegetarians, and therefore probably believed to be better articles of food for man.

Having listed the land animals whose flesh might safely be eaten, the injunctions of Jehovah take up the question of fish in the following language:

These shall ye eat of all that are in the waters: Whatsoever hath fins and scales may ye eat; and whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye shall not eat: it is unclean unto you. (Lev., 11.)

This, of course, classes "shellfish" and eels as unclean.

The birds and fowls are classified as follows:

Of all clean birds ye may eat. But these are they of which ye shall not eat: The eagle, the vulture, the osprey, the kite, the raven, the ostrich, the nighthawk, the owl, the pelican, the vulture, the cormorant, the hawk, the heron, the hoopoe, and the bat. (Lev., 11.)

SIMILAR ANCIENT BELIEFS

Probably the best known prohibition along these lines is that against the hog. Here the prophet says:

And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud; he is unclean unto you, ye shall not eat of his flesh nor touch his dead carcass. (Deut., 14:8)

The eating of fat was forbidden—apparently not because it was unfit but rather "because it is the food of the offering made by fire unto Jehovah."

Obedience to these several injunc-

Women Taking Literary Lead

(From the New York Evening Post.)

Are women superseding men as the literary leaders in America? Are the big cities more prolific in the coming generation of writers than the small towns and country communities?

Is the literary West forging ahead of the literary East in America? The answers to these questions and other interesting questions of America's literary trend are indicated in a census of the contributors to Harper Brothers' nation-wide prize novel contest as it draws to a close. This oldest general publishing house in America has shown itself to be particularly interested in young American authors. Believing that there are in the United States many young writers who have achieved success in the short story, in newspaper work, and in magazine articles who are capable of writing good novels, the Harpers offered a cash prize of $2,000, in addition to the ordinary terms of royalty, for the best novel submitted by a young author who has not published a novel in book form prior to 1914.

The manuscripts have poured in since last June, when the contest opened. The contest closes March 1. During the last month the manuscripts have been coming in at a rate of twelve to fifteen a day, from all over the United States, the Philippine Islands, and even from China.

The answers to the first question disclosed that aspiring men and women authors are exactly even in number—50 per cent of the novels contributed being from men and 50 per cent by women. This shows a trend Harper Brothers say, towards women displacing men as writers.

In answer to the second question big cities seem to foster more writers than the small towns and country communities. 60 per cent of the novels being from the cities, which gives them a lead of 20 per cent over the smaller towns.

Twenty per cent of the women writers admitted they were married; 30 per cent of them signed themselves "Miss" which would indicate that married women have less opportunity for self-expression.

Strangely to say, of all the girl writers 70 per cent are from the big cities, while of the married women a preponderance, 55 per cent, are from the villages.

Of the men 80 per cent are from the big cities.

In answer to the third question, the literary center of America is still preponderantly East—only 30 per cent of the manuscripts coming from states west of the Mississippi.

New York state leads all others with 20 per cent of the total number of novels contributed. California is second with 11 per cent. Illinois, which has lately been lying claim to tions was laid upon the children of Israel in the following impressive language:

It shall be a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings: ye shall eat neither fat nor blood ... all the fat is the Lord's. (Lev., 3:16, 17.)

The popular belief on this subject is that Moses in his wisdom designated certain articles of food which his people could eat primarily as a sanitary measure. The best writers consulted on this subject give no great credit to the sanitary side of the question. Usually they point to the fact that practically the same animals prohibited by Mosaic law were also prohibited by ancient Hindu, Egyptian and Babylonian laws.

Q. What was the cost of the last railroad strike? N. T. M.

A. It is impossible to compute the exact cost of the railroad strike. Some of the strikers secured time employment and some part-time employment, so the wage loss can not be fixed. The cost to the railroads was in lost revenue, increased expenses of operation due to hiring guards, bonuses to strike breakers, inefficient labor, et cetera, and deterioration in equipment due to its use when not properly repaired—all items impossible of exact determination. The cost to the public was spread over so many items that it is even more a matter of guess work.

Q. Which State in the Union is the greatest number of Roman Catholics? J. E. D.

A. New York has the greatest number of Roman Catholics but New Mexico has the largest per centage, having a per cent of 84.7.

Q. Is it true that there is a pendulum in the base of the Washington Monument which maintains its equilibrium during heavy winds? G. H. C.

A. The Office of Public Buildings and Grounds says there is no pendulum in the base of the Washington Monument, but that there is a plummet which registers the movement of the Monument by the wind and the sun.

Q. What is the story of Betty Zane? R. M.

A. Betty Zane was the heroine of an attack of Fort Henry. She ran from the fort, to a little log cabin where was stored a keg of powder, secured the keg and ran back to the stockade through a rain of bullets fired by Indians, who were making the attack. The attack upon Fort Henry, now Wheeling, West Virginia, was made September 27 and 28, 1777. Betty Zane was one of the famous family of borderers, which gave the name to Zanesville, Ohio, and to Zane's trail, the first wagon road that penetrated the Ohio country.

Q. What is the "ullage" in a barrel of wine? M. D.

A. Ullage is what a cask lacks in being full. Thus if a 32-gallon barrel contains only 25 gallons of wine, the ullage would be 7 gallons.

Q. When was the first school for training choir singers established? S. F. O.

A. It was established in 330 A. D. by Pope Sylvester.

Q. How long does it take to play a game of polo? O. V. L.

A. A game of polo is divided into six periods of ten minutes each, with three minutes intermission after each period, excepting the third, and then five minutes.

Q. How many of the names of the States are derived from Indian sources? C. C.

A. Twenty-two of the states have names of Indian origin. They are: Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

No Inflated
Currency In Slav Republic

(Alzada Comstock in the North American Review.)

The miracle has been accomplished. After four years the position of the Czechoslovak republic is unshaken. Its currency has a better rate in the world market than that of Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia or Poland. Excessive issues of paper money have been avoided. Foreign trade is increasing. The wealth of resources in the country, the resources so diversified that the country is capable of becoming practically self-sufficient, is only a partial explanation of the progress of the last four years. The key to the situation is in the fact that the newly formed Czechoslovak government included men who knew that financial stability was one of the first requirements of the important commercial nation which they hoped to see established.

It is often said that Czechoslovakia alone among the countries of Central Europe has kept her printing press silent since the war. In the sense in which treasury officials refer to the activities of government printing presses the statement is wholly accurate. Czechoslovakia alone has refused to expand her uncovered state notes for the purpose of meeting government expenditures. This action, together with the stimulation of commerce as a basis for the "covered" note issue, represents Czechoslovakia's great contribution to post-war finance.

Columbian Club Pleases Large Audience With "My Irish Rose"

Columbian club players presented "My Irish Rose" a second time before an enthusiastic audience in Columbia hall Monday evening. The performance was even more finished than on Sunday night. The incumbents seeking reelection, and those named as their opponents are, respectively:

Supervisor, Frank Reimer and Louis Schultz; supervisor, Henry Reimer and George Palmbach; clerk, Carl Ludwig and George Palmbach; treasurer, Louis Schultz and George Palmbach; justice, W. G. Jamison; justice, Roy Menning and Henry Ehlers; town clerk, John Kiese; constable, Robert Winters and Rinaldo Rubbert.

RESUMED JOURNEY

Leonard Day Was Snowbound At Dale For Almost Week — Is Fast Walker

Dale — Saturday at 11:30, Leonard Day, the author-pedestrian, left Dale on his journey around the rim of the United States. Mr. Day had been held here since Wednesday on account of the storm and drifted roads.

Wednesday of last week he spoke to a large audience in the local hall. Thursday he visited the school and gave a talk to the children. On Friday evening a reception was held at the opera house in his honor. The music was furnished by the Lecky Four. While here Mr. Day was entertained at the homes of different citizens. The school children gave Mr. Day a send-off with "On Wisconsin" and a photograph played "Farewell To Thee" as Mr. Day left the village. He did not say goodbye but "Auf Wiedersehen."

Fire Chief Bert Hunsicker started to accompany him as far as Readfield but after two miles of walking he was obliged to return as he could not keep pace with one so accustomed to walking.

Mrs. Fred Kauffman attended the style show at Appleton last week.

The company operates loading stations at Shiocton, Black Creek, Seymour, Center Valley, Mackville, Hortonville and Appleton. FEW CANDIDATES
SEEKING OFFICE

Kaukauna Municipal Election Will Have Few Thrills This Year

Kaukauna—City election this year will be interesting in only a few wards. With only two days remaining for applications for office to file their nomination papers with the city clerk, there still are men running for office who are without opposition. However, several papers have been circulated during the last week and the race promises excitement at least in the second ward where the incumbent, Walter H. Cooper, will be opposed by John Esler for a chair in the council chamber for the next two years. Don Eick, assessor, and Otto C. Hass into the first ward, there is a vacancy in the second ward which will be filled by the election of a man for a term of one year. John M. Wheaton, Otto Ludke and Frank Mitcheba have cast their hats into the ring.

F. W. Wieggers in the Third ward and H. C. Wittmann in the Fifth ward are still unopposed and they will walk into the council for another term with flying colors unless opponents spring up soon. In the Fourth ward Alderman John T. Timmers will seek reelection, opposed by William Doering, whose nomination papers are being circulated by friends.

Only two persons thus far seek a position on the board of education while the one year term of Mrs. Mary Regenfuss, Edward Grebe and L. F. Nelson expire. Mrs. Mary Regenfuss has reentered the field and papers also have been filed for Mrs. Elizabeth Swarthout, former principal in Park school.

No apparent effort is being made to run for the offices of justice of the peace which at present are filled by H. J. Mulholland on the south side and N. D. Schwin on the north side. Besides a dearth of candidates for municipal offices, someone must be found to accept a seat as county supervisor from the Third ward to replace Jacob Miller. Mr. Miller was appointed some time ago to fill a vacancy caused by the removal of Supervisor August Helms into another ward.

PITCHER WITH RECORD

NAME SEEKING A JOB

Kaukauna—John Coppes, president of the local baseball club is corresponding with a Minneapolis, Minn. pitcher who has offered his services as a pitcher for the coming season. The young man is 24 years old, is five feet ten inches high, weighs 170 pounds and has a name like "a dream" according to Mr. Coppes, who is still trying to figure out how the moniker is pronounced. Either the baseball player or is a practical joker or fate has placed on his shoulders a title that ought to bring him world's record in hard names. It consists of at least 60 letters and is stretched across the width of the paper exactly one and one half times. However, the young man has taken enough letters from his regular name to call himself Mike VanHinkle.

VanHinkle played last season with the Minneapolis Commercial club and won eight out of nine games. He also has played two seasons with the first Green Bay club where he won 20 out of 23 starts. In both leagues, VanHinkle said he was credited with a batting average of .400. When not pitching, he plays the outfield.

RIPARIAN OWNERS VOTE ON NEW PLAN

Meet Monday in Oshkosh To Decide On Latest Proposal

A meeting of land owners along the Fox and Wolf rivers will be held in Oshkosh at 10 o'clock Monday morning to decide whether they shall give the waterpower owners of the Fox River valley a year to prove their plan of eliminating spring floods or, whether suit shall be started to force removal of the flashboards on the dam at Neenah. The meeting is called by Allan H. Tripp, president of the Association for Relief of High Water.

At a recent meeting of committees representing the riparians and the waterpower interests, the waterpower men offered a plan whereby the riparian owners and the powermen would join in a petition to the war department to permit the mill men to draw water from Lake Winnebago to 23 inches below the crest of the dam at the start of navigation. This would give the lake greater capacity to take care of the water which comes in from the Wolf river in the spring. It also proposed to deepen the channel of the river between Menasha and the lake and to strengthen the government locks and canals in the lower river so that larger quantities of water can be flushed through the dams at Neenah and Menasha without endangering the government works. The millmen objected to removing the flashboards, declaring the sluicing capacity of the dam is sufficient to take care of the water.

Thousands Take Part In Recreational Programs Of Winter At Y.M.C.A.

Report Of A. P. Jensen, Physical Director, Shows Attendance
Of More Than 4,000 Each Month At Events

The physical department report of the Y. M. C. A. for December and January prepared by A. P. Jensen, physical director, shows that the grand total gymnasium attendance of men and boys during the month of December was 4,294, which was an increase of 78 over the previous December. The grand total attendance for January was 4,634, which was 134 less than the attendance for the same month of the previous year.

The gymnasium attendance for December was 977 men and 661 boys, a total of 1,638. The total attendance for the same month last year was 1,000 men and 778 boys, a total of 1,778. The attendance at special activities for December was 2,002 men and 653 boys, a total of 2,655. The attendance for the same month last year was 1,733 men and 700 boys, a total of 2,433.

LIKE "GYM WORK"
The January gymnasium attendance was 1,072 men and 731 boys, a total of 1,803. Last year for the same period, the attendance was 1,164 men and 729 boys, a total of 1,893. The attendance at special activities was 1,759 men and 1,042 boys, a total of 2,801. The record for the first month of the previous year was 1,261 men and 1,614 boys, a total of 2,875.

The special activities in the above report include swimming, basketball, bowling, volleyball, handball, and special exercise room. "The marked decrease in special activities for boys in January," said Mr. Jensen, "can be accounted for in the Appleton boys' athletic federation of last year. At that time the Y. M. C. A. promoted a citywide athletic federation which consisted of 48 basketball teams arranged in classes according to age.

CHANGE SCHEDULE
"These teams were made up to represent church, school, Sunday school, Y. M. C. A. and boys' clubs. Because of duplication, however, we found many boys playing on more than one team, giving those boys too strong an athletic schedule. This year we have 11 teams representing the schools of Appleton, including a parochial, each school having one team.

"One the evening of Dec. 19, the Y. M. C. A. building was a good example of a community agency, when the Interlake Pulp and Paper company entertained 450 of its employees and families at a Christmas party in the gymnasium.

BOWLING LEAGUE
"During November, December and January an industrial bowling league was conducted in which six teams were represented including a Y. M. C. A. team and teams representing Fox River Paper company, Interlake Pulp & Paper company, Kimberly-Clark company, Appleton Wire Works and Combined Locks Paper company. These teams bowled every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

During January an interclass volleyball tournament was held to stimulate interest and develop good fellowship among the men in the various classes. Men were divided into December and the Y. M. C. A. team and Old Timers team are patiently waiting now for their prolonged volleyball trip to Fond du Lac.

Emphasis is now being placed upon swimming. A swimming club has been organized and meets every Thursday evening at 7:45, under the direction of Everett Wright.

"The report is signed by A. P. Jensen, physical director, and George H. Packard, chairman of the physical department committee.

Study Cause Of Failure Then Win Success

By analyzing the causes of failure and success in its projects, the salesmanship. The class is composed of conducted by H. L. Post, assisted by Miss Dorothy Hart, kindergarten teacher, and Richard Nelson is working out the fundamentals of good salesmanship. The class is composed of members of the seventh and eighth grades of the school and it has been conducting candy sales in order to actually gain experience in selling.

The class makes its own posters advertising the sale, studying at the same time the things the poster must contain to attract the attention of the public and accomplish its purpose. The second sale to be given by the class was held Friday afternoon in the school building and netted more than seven dollars. The sale held two weeks before had been a failure so the members of the class used the failure as a means of making their future sales real successes. They discussed the reasons why it had failed and then worked out a plan which would correct the causes for the former failure.

The class motto is: To do the right thing at the right time, to do some things better than they were ever done before, to know both sides of a question, to be courteous, to be an example, to work for the love of the work, to anticipate requirements, to develop resources, to recognize no impediments, to master circumstances, to act from reason rather than rule, to be satisfied with nothing short of perfection. The members of the class are the following: Ralph Sell, president; Louise Carvie, secretary; Edith Wilson, Dorothy Trettin, Anna Youtz, Alva Carter, Wilmer Schafer, Ruth Bittler, Esther Grube, Irma Tietz, Donnie Hermann, Viola Fickel, Nona Buell, Elborn Larson, Harriet NaGreen, Carolyn Schael, Nelda Meyer, William Montgomery, Howard Melzer, Carl Kunitz, Florence Kuefler and Gwendolyn Taylor.

In that month the company did a bigger business than in any other month of its history.

So upon his return Wright called his workers together and told them any month they duplicated that record he'd add 25 per cent to the pay of each and for every $1000 over the record he'd grant an increase of 8 per cent.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy
Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The largest item in the February record was $1,597,500, or 48 per cent of the month's total, for public works and utilities. Residential building contracts amounted to $223,300, or 19 per cent of the total.

ON THE SCREEN

NORMA TALMADGE IN NEW TRI-UMPH

Accustomed as we are to expecting great things from Norma Talmadge, admitted the most popular actress on the screen today, each of her succeeding pictures reveals a new Norma—more perfect, if that were possible, than in her preceding roles; more finished in her artistry. Here is a star who is not content to rest on her lustrous laurels; each new portrayal is marked by advance and progress, by a sincerity and depth in their fineness.

Such is the case with her latest production, "The Voice From the Minaret," a First National picture which opened at the Elite theatre yesterday. We went there expecting to be pleased, mightily. We left wondering whether we would be able to describe in cold type just how marvellous a work of art this picture really is.

What pleasant thoughts memories of "Smilin' Through" and "The Eternal Flame" bring to one who has been so fortunate as to see them. We felt then that the excitement had been reached and that they could not be excelled from any standpoint. But a greater picture has been brought to the screen by its greatest artist.

Miss Talmadge's inspired acting; Eugene O'Brien's perfect portrayal of his difficult role; a highly efficient supporting cast; a splendid story, replete with dramatic situations; settings that transplant one into the realms of romance—these are but a few of the highlights of "The Voice From the Minaret," which comes from the gifted pen of Robert Hichens and has been directed in a masterful manner by Frank Lloyd, who numbers "The Eternal Flame" among his accomplishments.

GROCERY STORE FOR EVERY 218 PERSONS

For every 218 people in the United States there is one grocery store. For every 710 people there is one general store says the Outlook. For every 2,100 people there is one drug store. For every 2,800 people, one hardware store. Automobiles make business for a multitude of stores, for it is said that for every 167 automobiles in the United States there is one repair shop, while there is one automobile supply company for every 156 automobiles.

Study the Three Greatest American Documents

There are three documents with which every American should be familiar—the Declaration of Independence, proclaimed on July 4, 1776; the Articles of Confederation providing for a Union of the States; and the Constitution of the United States which is the highest law of the land.

A thorough understanding of the history and government of this country is not possible without a knowledge of these three historic papers.

Our readers are offered—entirely free—a booklet issued by the American Peace Society containing these three documents.

No War Hatred Seen In Germans Whose Lives Are Lived For Passion Play

Master Message Of Reconciliation Is Breathed In Presentation At Oberammergau Of Great Play Of Bible Times

The official title of the passion play is "The Great Sacrifice of Reconciliation on Golgotha." This is significant and appropriate. The play represents the greatest transforming and reconciling power in the world. It is meted and proper that it should come from Germany and have its birth and propagation in a land that has been under the cloud for the past eight years, stigmatized as opposed to the very principles promulgated by this drama of reconciliation.

The play could not have come at a more opportune time than it did in 1922. It should have appeared in 1920 but economic conditions and the loss of 67 sons of the village and scores injured, wounded and unfit prevented the people from keeping the exact schedule. But into Europe came this vivid demonstration of the forces that had been at play during the tragic World war, all the forces of hate, prejudice, race feeling, political trickery, all the elements of selfishness, of greed, of jealousy, of narrowness; all the powers of vested interests—are packed together in the dramatization save with this difference, that when you have seen the end of the eight-hour play you exclaim: "Thou hast conquered, thou pale Galilee!"

Such is the reconciling power of the story that has transformed and is transforming the world. Everybody wants this reconciling power. Everybody believes in it, even if they do not all believe in vast numbers of the churches that seek to promulgate it. But here is a play that demonstrates that reconciliation is a physical, practical fact. It is eminently proper that Germany should be its greatest exponent.

WORLD RECONCILES

Reconciliation is a great biological fact. It means to harmonize, to promote by sacrifice by losing one's life to gain it again. The idea is at work everywhere. Machinists assemble parts, adjust, harmonize and bring together all loose ends for the purpose of progress. Doctors do that with the body; lawyers in the present passion play use the virtue of the passion play to reconcile differences more than fight. Statesmen are slowly coming to that view because of the enormous tonnage of blood that has flowed; business men are not the Herods and Pilates they once were inclined to be, for they would rather follow the path of reconciliation and good will than fight their competitors. This is true also of Christian churches; there is more of the reconciling spirit amongst men. Calvary is becoming a physical fact. This is also true amongst Catholics and Protestants. Though there are always the Pharisees in both branches of the church, always opposing the reconciling Christ, yet all who truly have lived through the passion get rid of that at the cross of reconciliation. In international affairs world reconciliation is the dream of common men everywhere, even if statesmen like Herod and Pilate still believe in the sword and spear.

You would be impressed with the reconciling spirit, the moment you arrived in Oberammergau. The very hills, fir-crowned, breathe peace. You are glad to get here after the 3½-hour ride from Munich. Munich is the capital of Bavaria, which is much more archaic in thought. Oberammergau is above racial lines. Anton Lange, the Christ of the play, says that the delight of Oberammergauers has been the great international company from whom they have learned so much. No one is angry and in a hurry.

EMULATE PEACE

It is true that the little station with its many tracks is a perfect jam of people on days prior to the performance. But the German officials here seemed more patient than in any other place. They want to impress foreigners at every turn that they are actually living out the passion play idea. This is true in the little shops. No exorbitant prices are charged. Prices are definite, there is no underselling.

The war made no difference apparently. The English folk were treated with exactly the same respect as anyone else. No American shared in the same reconciling spirit. We heard practically no complaints on the parts of the villagers save that they were hard hit. Those that remained at home had done the wood carving, the pottery work, the painting, the bead work which makes these common people artists in more ways than one. All their work is a blessing, a reconciling influence. The whole story of Christ is in the thought, the words, the emblems and pictures that run into his life; even the pottery and bead work. The village is simply steeped in the spirit of the play. Their very cattle are complacent. Anton Lange's donkey is the pet of the village children and the owner uses it in the scene of the triumphal entry into Jerusalem, a befitting emblem of the conqueror of humility in contrast to the horse which is always a symbol of war. Thus even the animals of the village share in the spirit of the place, even the lowly oxen that are driven through the winding streets.

The whole village atmosphere, all the laws and regulations, all the work of the people from the small tiller of the soil to the merchant, from teacher to priest, from the seller of postcards to the banker who multiplies his force by ten when the strangers come, all aim to live in the atmosphere of the play, for they have discovered it cannot be put on without this background. Thus children are taken on mother's arms to the theater. The historic scene is born and bred in them, simple and illiterate as they may appear to many according to modern standards.

ALL IS HARMONY

It is surprising what can be done when people set their minds on harmonizing and marshaling about all trades, arts and professions of men one grand event toward which the excitation of a vast concourse of people there being at least 700 in the first scene. The costumes of the participants are expensive and are characteristic of Bible times. Such an exhibition in itself is worth much to anyone familiar with the Bible story and the general life of Palestine people. Here the drama begins with the conquering supremacy of humility and truth showing that one day service and love will overthrow greed as Christ overthrew the money changers in the temple, for the master injustices of our time are connected with money-making. It is right the drama should be introduced at this stage. It is an entering wedge and shows that the great reconciliation is not merely for personal salvation but for social salvation, like language which is not necessary very much for the life of the individual but for life of society. So the reconciliation is a reconciliation of man to God and he shows in this drama that reconciliation of man with man, no one being allowed to appear at the altar with agist until brotherhood is righted and he gets reconciled with his neighbor.

This is not the place to give the contents of the play. A summary of a few things will be of interest. The tableaux are given without the participants moving. Sometimes you have an idea they are wax figures. It is a strain to the players to stand for three minutes without moving. The tableaux represent the following scenes: The sons of Jacob conspiring against Joseph. This is in connection with the plot of the high council against Jesus. The tableau of Tobias departing from his home, the lamenting bride of the Canticles with eight daughters of Jerusalem, is connected up with the Bethany scene and Jesus leaving his own. Yashit rejected and Esther chosen queen, comes in connection with Christ going towards Jerusalem and weeping over the city. The last supper is introduced with a tableau of the manna in the wilderness, as impressive a part as can be found in the whole dramatization. Anton Lange is at his best in this scene in his conversations as Christus with the disciples.

SHOWS JOSEPH SOLD
Joseph sold by his brethren precedes the betrayal of Christ and is a most befitting tableau. The choir sings: "What shudders run through all my limbs. Where goest thou, Judas full of rage?"

Two tableaux precede the Gethsemane scene, one of Adam and Eve at work in a garden under the curse of sin and the other represents Joab murdering Amasa. Here in the agony of the garden Judas appears with the military gang of the day. Jesus appearing before Annas, the high priest, is preceded by the tableau of Micah receiving a blow from Ahab for telling him the truth. The innocent Naboth condemned to death by false witnesses, forms the background in the tableau that precedes Christ's condemnation. Cain slaying Abel is set as a background for Judas. The latter appears alone on the stage and holds a long conversation with himself after the betrayal. Every auditor goes away with a different conception of Judas.

STARTS IN MORNING
The play we witnessed began at 8:07 in the morning. It was the last official public appearance of the season. It was given once or twice after that. The orchestra introduced the play. When that had finished the chorus entered from both sides of the stage, meeting in the center. The leader of this chorus is called the "choragus" and he began the play with the words: "Bow down in holy wonder. By God's curse expressed in race! Peace to thee! From Zion grace once more."

Then the chorus made a bifurcation, half moving to one side and the other half to the other side lining up on corners of the center building of the stage, the curtains were drawn to the sides and the first tableau "expulsion from paradise" was presented with a song, "Mankind from Eden's Grove is Driven," the curtains returning and the chorus closing with a song of welcome entitled, "Welcome, welcome to all who here the tender love of the Savior unites." The people in the audience have textbooks, the majority on that performance being English. Some books have both texts together.

The play of course is given in the German language. No French editions were sold this time. There are Bohemian, Spanish and Italian editions also. In this way foreigners can easily follow the play. The recitatives of the place are perfect and the speakers can be heard at the remotest corners, that too because there is a breathless silence. No one is whispering and the various crises in the dramatization are so fascinating that very few get tired, always living in expectancy that has a fascination and a tension never forgotten by those fortunate enough to witness the drama.

OPENS WITH JOY

The first act represents the entrance of Jesus into Jerusalem. It is presented with the applause and

das. He is a man of deep remorse and therefore a great man. He cannot believe himself as having served his Master thus. He thought of a material kingdom and was sure Christ would assert his supremacy. He considers himself the outcast, the seum and what not of the earth and he sees no hope but in hanging to wipe out his dastardly deed.

Samson made sport of before Philistines is the Old Testament background of Christ before Pilate. The condemnation scene is preceded by Joseph being made governor of Egypt and the goat sacrificed as a sin offering in Hebrew times. Isaac on Mount Moriah and the brazen serpent precede Golgotha. There is no tableau before the Calvary scene. The chorus sings: "Up pious souls arise and go. Full of remorse, of pain and thanks. With me to Golgotha and see. O bring to this great love Your pious heart's emotion Upon the altar of the cross. As a grateful offering there."

RESEMBLE PAINTING
The resurrection and ascension are more like a master painting and they move slowly to their consummation after the long, weary, drawn-out process of putting to death the Lord Christ. Possibly the scene of the crucifixion is a trifle unnatural; at least it seems so to some of us. It is a hard part to play. No one could play it better than these Oberammergauers. Christus has to be suspended by a corselet. His arms and feet have slight support. It takes great endurance. Anton Lange's arm slipped in 1900 and he was in danger of being strangled to death, the sisters in the play, praying he might pass through it well. The scene of Mary, the mother of Jesus, bidding her son farewell, brought tears to half of the audience. The cries of the mob of 500 people all crying in unison that Christ be crucified is one of the reverberations that echo in one's ear and heart for years to come. The resurrection scene is full of pathos, warmth, sympathy and glory. It moves rapidly but with no undue haste. The stone moves away. There is joy and triumph everywhere.

The thoughtful man visiting the dramatization is deeply impressed how it simply represents what is going on now in the world. Force and prejudice and vested interests put Jesus to death. Goodness, virtue, truth, humanity and righteousness are crucified the same way today. Pilate appears really as a nobleman in the drama. He has an impartiality that you never thought he had and he reminds you of men who are not prejudiced Christians who have a fairness and rectitude that surpass the Pharisees of those days and even those of this day. Pilate was not a victim of frenzy, of hatred of prejudice; he argued, he denounced, he threatened, he resorted to every subterfuge to save Christ's life and only when about to loose his job before Caesar did he yield to the sanhedrin. Calphas has his counterpart in religious men of today, afraid that respectability, patriotism, law, custom and tradition would be lost by the new innovation of the Nazarene. He was afraid of new things, new life and was a standpatter in politics and religion. Technically Jesus had violated all laws of the sanhedrin and the Jews condemned him according to their standard. In it all one sees the frenzy of the mob using force and how that force does not triumph, for out of death comes the resurrection of spiritual forces that will yet conquer the world, like love, harmony, reconciliation, peace and good will, all of which wipe out hatred, violence, anger and sin of every description.

The last song of the chorus at the ascension is appropriate: "Praise Him conqueror of death, Once condemned on Golgotha, Praise thee amidst sinners holy, To the victor crowns now bring, Oshkosh, Wis. S. G. Rueger."

Our Ideal Paige—Your Ideal Car

If your ideal car is one of dignified beauty, the newly refined lines of the Paige will charm you. If your ideal of beauty means also richness of detail and substantial construction, the new Paige bodies will satisfy you.

For Paige Ideal bodies are now doubly braced, extra stout. Double strips of patent leather keep metal from touching metal or wood. This idea from Europe insures a forever silent body.

The richness of the new Paige bodies is sensed by hand and eye. Not a piece of imitation leather in the open cars. Superbly loomed velours in the enclosed types. All instruments beneath a single glass panel in a walnut dash. Walnut steering wheel—adjustable to driver's convenience.

Undoubtedly your ideal car is a Paige in performance. Like its predecessor, this Paige 6-70 will prove America's unchallenged champion in speed, hill-climbing and acceleration. Likewise our Ideal Paige goes beyond even your ideals in easy handling.

The new clutch, with six springs instead of one and a light-weight driven member, gives smooth, easy engagement. The new transmission gives finger-touch gear shifting with a bare 3-inch movement. And it is almost as quiet in first and second speeds as in high.

A new degree of endurance—of long life at reduced upkeep—has been given the Ideal Paige by scores of chassis improvements. The finest practicable workmanship by precision tools and gauges, is standard throughout. A new automatic take-up for the chain driven auxiliary shafts does away with need for adjustment.

Since 1909 the same officers, directors and engineers have been working together on the development of the Ideal Paige. Each year has brought it closer. Now it is achieved. And the success of the Paige-built Jewett has so increased the volume and reduced the overhead of the great Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company that this Ideal Paige is still a car of reasonable price.

Paige now definitely takes its place as one of America's finest cars. A Six of course—because the Six is the ideal type motor for balanced smoothness, flexibility, long life and care-free simplicity. This Ideal Paige is here—ready to charm you—to satisfy you with its comfort—and thrill you with its performance. Please inspect it at our Display Rooms.

33 YOUNG PEOPLE TAKE CHURCH VOWS

Large Number Of Lawrence College Students Plan To Become Members

Thirty three young people were received into the First Methodist church at the morning service Sunday by Dr. J. A. Holmes, some as affiliated members, and others on probation or on confession of faith. Another large group will be taken in April 8, the Sunday after spring vacation.

About 227 students of Lawrence college have promised either to affiliate with some church or join one, it was announced at the service. This is a result of the closing meeting of the series conducted by A. J. "Dad" Elliott, Y. M. C. A. worker at the college.

Dr. Holmes, president of the local ministerial association, is working out a system by which every pastor in Appleton may get in touch with the young people of his denomination who have signified their desire to belong to a local church while in Appleton.

COUNCIL TO NAME ZONE APPEAL BOARD

Mayor Reuter Will Recommend Five Men At Wednesday's Session

A board of appeals for hearing appeals relative to the enforcement of the zoning ordinance by the city engineer will be created at a meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. Mayor Henry Reuter will announce the appointments at that time, but the appointments are subject to confirmation by the council.

The board will consist of five members, one of whom is to be an architect or structural engineer. Terms of office will in the first instance be two for one year, two for two years and one for three years, appointments thereafter to be for three years each.

Applications for various licenses and permits will be acted upon and petitions for street improvements will also be heard at the council meeting.

3RD DISTRICT FOR UNIFORM SALARIES

Approve Citywide Scale For Teachers—Mayor Succceeds Lange

Owing to pressure of private business, George C. Lange, clerk of the Third school district, tendered his resignation at a meeting of the board Monday afternoon and Joseph Mayer was appointed to fill the unexpired term. By virtue of his being clerk of the former alderman will serve on the board of education. The automatic scale of wages for teachers which was favorably considered by the other school boards will make the salaries of teachers uniform throughout the city, was adopted.

ON THE SCREEN

TOUGH YEGGS IN WES BARRY FILM

Realism in acting never went farther than it has in "Heroes of the Street," where real crooks were hired to play the part of the crooks in the picture.

Director William Beaudine felt that once the high points in the picture, apart from the love story, deal with the machinations of a crew of crooks that stop at nothing, the best way to catch the spirit of the story would be to get the "real stuff." Accordingly he sent a representative to scout around the quarters they frequent, and induced them to act before the camera in scenes that must have made them reminiscences of similar occurrences. Picture patrons who go to see "Heroes of the Street," which will be shown at the Majestic theater for a four day run have a treat in store for them in the matter of some genuine underworld thrills. In addition, Wesley Barry, the boy actor, has the starring part, and is the same old irrepressible prank-loving and fun-stimulating kid who makes you laugh and cry with the humor and pathos of his acting.

"Heroes of the Street" was adapted for the screen from Len Parker's play by Edmund Goulding, Mildred Considine and Isabel Johnston. It is a Warner Brothers production directed by William Beaudine. Wesley Barry's supporting cast consists of Marie Prevost, Wilfred Lucas, Akme Herron, Al Walling, Phil McLaughlin, "Fanchon" Lee, Jackson, Joe Butterworth, Phil Ford, Wedgewood Nowell and Lillian Leeds.

MORE BRAINS THAN A FORD

I have noticed a milk man who evidently has his horses very well trained to the route they cover. Delivering in the First ward, he will stop on a corner and while he is delivering at two or three residences his team will turn the corner, go a short distance and stop. Mr. Milkman cuts through the back way, jumps in and on to the next stop. We'll have to hand it to old Dobbin there, as no Ford or Road speed wagon could put that over.

POPULAR WITH THE DOG

Late Sunday afternoon a small box came out of Hartmann's Pacific street store with a package of wieners which were loosely wrapped. One wiener was peeping out of the package and a dog sniffed at it and finally took a bite. The boy then shook the package and the wiener fell out. The dog, of course, was delighted and swallowed the tid bit in one joyous gulp.

Saturday in the Woolworth store "I Spied" a lady who had purchased some candy, inquiring whether she had left her purse on the counter. After asking at several other counters she reached in the bag for some candy and much to her amazement took out her purse.

DAMSEL IN DISTRESS

Yesterday I saw a young lady in distress and was much amused at her attempt to get out of the predicament. She backed her car out of a driveway, and having no chains, got stalled in deep snow before reaching the street. First she kicked the snow away from all wheels, but that didn't help. So she put it in gear and got out to rock it back and forth, but she wasn't strong enough. Then she took a long rope and wound it around the tire, but the loose end got wound up and twisted, and it was worse than before. Finally she gave up, just as two men came along to shovel the snow away and push the car out.

YOUNGSTERS LIKE SNOW

While we older folk are wishing for the disappearance of snow and longing for the first days of Spring, the youngsters do not seem to tire of the sports which snow brings. Saturday on looking from my kitchen window I beheld four small boys, probably from 6 to 10 years of age, who evidently wished for some excitement which "sliding down hill" couldn't furnish and they were making back ward somersaults from the top of the ravine, back of Sherman Place, to the bottom. One small boy was more proficient than the rest and his somersaults were perfect, while the others would topple sideways, he would turn, waver on an instant on his head and then over he would go. Regardless of the fact that they were covered with snow from head to foot, this procedure was repeated many times.

SHE HAD A HANGER ON

An amusing incident happened on Washington street Sunday about noon. A lady with her bag came out of a house, locked the door and started toward the avenue. A girl raised an upstairs window and told her that she had a coat hanger hanging to the belt of her coat in the back. The lady in question laughed, took the hanger off, and then threw it into the snow.

OH YES, VERY CRITICAL

Monday night after school, I went to a west end garage. When I came in I saw a man standing on a stepladder, beneath which was a steel oil barrel with fairly sharp edges. The man lost his balance and then the step ladder began falling. In his excitement he tried to grab a hold of the ceiling to steady the ladder, but seeing he could not hold himself he jumped. He missed the barrel with his feet but sat on the barrel. He is now in a critical condition.

ALL IN THE SAME PLACE

It seems that the storm was not very agreeable to automobiles for on Sunday night and Monday morning many machines were stuck at the corner of Alvin and Second-ave. First a yellow cab became stuck and could not get out so the driver brought another cab and driver and pulled the machine out. About ten minutes later a Ford truck came along and became stuck in the same place. The truck managed to get out and when it returned about fifteen minutes later the driver had to shovel it out because the chains would not work. About one half hour later a Ford coupe also became stalled in the same place. Monday morning Dean's and Kuntz's taxi were also stalled for a while in the same place.

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan. "I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."

Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and we have published thousands of them. You may expect that a medicine that has helped other women will help you. Try it.

TIGER'S AMERICAN WIFE DEAD 6 MONTHS

By Associated Press

Paris—The death in Paris of Mme. Mary Plummer Clemenceau, estranged American wife of the former premier, referred to in dispatches from America, occurred here six months ago and received little public attention at time, owing to the delicate and almost forgotten marital questions involved.

Dr. O'Keefe, Dentist, Ins. Bldg.

The divorce granted M. Clemenceau was in 1891. He was given custody of the children who lived with him through their school period and up to the time of marriage. Annuity was later voluntarily accorded the former wife of M. Clemenceau. The court records confirm the divorce granted M. Clemenceau in 1891 with custody of the three children.

Car Disabled

Passengers aboard a Junction street car about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning were obliged to walk part way to town when the car was disabled at the corner of State and Eighth-ists. Some portion of the motor apparatus was put out of commission.

DIPLOMAS ISSUED TO 14 GRADUATES OF LEADER SCHOOL

W. E. Smith Is Speaker At Closing Session—Commends Appleton Plan

W. E. Smith, president of the Appleton Council of Religious Education, who gave the commencement address Monday evening for the first class to graduate from the Community training school for religious and social leaders, congratulated Appleton on being one of the first cities to see the need for trained religious workers. He traced some of the many former projects in which Appleton has been a pioneer and leader, stating that in this movement for religious education she has also led many cities of the state and even a number out side of Wisconsin have looked to the results of her system before starting one of their own.

Mr. Smith said the World war confirmed the great need for Christian leadership and instruction and that the youth of today will be ready to receive such instruction if they have the right leadership. He stated the demand for trained leadership is becoming greater and that only through education along social and religious lines can the modern youth be reached.

STUDENTS SPEAK
Two members of the graduating class, which includes fourteen persons, talked. Mrs. H. K. Pratt gave the views of the class on "What I Got from the Training School," and Miss Marie Finger spoke on "What the Training School can do for the Church."

Prof. Earl Emme, director of the school, closed the program with a short talk and the presentation of diplomas. Prof. Emme said the duty of leaders of today is shouldering the responsibility of the movement toward religious education and the 14 trained workers who graduated from the training school Monday evening will be able because of their work to accomplish a great deal in their communities.

At the close of the program the senior class presented a resolution to the school asking that the training school for religious and social leaders become a permanent feature in the cooperative church program of religious education. The resolution was accepted by the school and another passed to the effect that a copy of the exact resolution be sent to the local ministerial association.

THE GRADUATES
The following persons received diplomas, as the result of the satisfactory completion of a three-year course: Mertie Albertson, Marie Finger, Edith Cook, Arthur Gauerke, Rev. Edward P. Nuss, Mrs. George Packard, Della Pankow, Mrs. G. P. Byrant, Mrs. P. T. Stallman, Mrs. C. A. Wagner, P. S. Wheeler, Mrs. H. K. Pratt, Pearl Hughes and Irene Ramsay. The last two persons completed their course last year but were included in the group to receive diplomas, as none were given last year.

The commencement program was preceded by a banquet for members of the class and the faculty at 5:45 in Hotel Appleton. Ben J. Rohan was toastmaster and an informal discussion on the value and benefits of the school took place.

FLOGGING RECOMMENDED FOR BUFFALO WIFE BEATERS

By Associated Press
Buffalo—The whipping post as a restraining influence on wifebeaters is favored by the probation officers of this city. Their opinion was expressed during the hearing recently of an exceptionally brutal case. Serious cases of wife beating in which the woman carried the marks for days or weeks average about 50 a year in this city, and there are frequent "repeaters."

"Flogging is the only remedy for these brutes," says William T. Glavin, chief probation officer. "The lash is being used in Delaware and Canada, and I would like to see it adopted in New York."

Bad whiskey figured in most recent cases of wife beating, the court records show.

STATE PLANNING TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYED

By Associated Press
Madison—Relief of unemployment by the extension of state work during periods of depression was favored in the assembly Tuesday with endorsement of the Eber bill calling upon the state board of control to push its building program at times when large numbers of men in Wisconsin are out of work.

The lower house voted to extend the scope of the state law requiring semi-monthly payment of wages to all corporations, firms and individuals and lumbering companies.

ADAM AND EVE ON ISLE
London—There's one place in the world where the eternal triangle is impossible—the Island of Holm in the Orkney group. Its only inhabitants are a man and his wife, latest census reveals.

LIKE PUT-AND-TAKE?
London—Five Chinese were arrested and fined for operating gambling resorts. They said the Chinese game of Fika-Pau was attracting many Londoners. The only thing they'd tell about the game is that sometimes odds of 400 to one are offered.

LEAVE IT TO BRIDGET
Woking, England—Every night in years Bridget Thelan, housemaid, had looked under the bed for an intruder. Then she looked and saw one. She grasped him by the collar and made him give back her wrist watch which he'd purloined.

EXPECT NEW ARREST IN NEW YORK MURDER CASE

By Associated Press
New York—Another mystery figure has entered the Dorothy Keenan murder case with the announcement of Acting District Attorney Pecora that the police expect to take into custody a man not hitherto mentioned.

Albert Guimares of whom Miss Keenan was so fond, is not the man, Mr. Pecora said. Nor is it Mr. Marshall or "Wilson," his secretary, he added. In Mr. Pecora's mind they have been absolved of any direct responsibility for the girl's death.

BROKEN HEARTS NO LONGER DRAW FANCY BALM SUM

Kiss Value In Breach Of Promise Cases Rises In Chicago Courts

Special to Post-Crescent
Chicago—Kisses up! Hearts down! Thus runs the current price trend on Chicago's love market.

From a series of court decisions, just handed down here, it has become evident the attitude of juries toward blighted affections, which cry aloud to be mended with gold in breach of promise actions, is undergoing a radical change.

Thwarted darts of Cupid are worth but $1 to $25 a puncture, judicial price fixers have decreed. But when it comes to a case of "sne who gets kissed" against her will, the brotherhood of 12 good men and true seems Johnny on the spot to avenge the damage with unlimited lucre.

For proof, run your eyes over the following instances just ground from the heart mill:

Miss Ethel Jay French vs. John Wood Brooks-Ladd. She asked $50,000. Jury gave her $1. Court said it was enough.

Mrs. Nettie Lasser vs. Abe Bender. She asked $25,000. Jury gave her $1. Court held the amount sufficient.

Mrs. Anna Marcus Hymann Wittenberg. She asked $50,000. Jury gave her $25. Judge refused new trial.

STOLEN KISSES:
Miss Mathilde Benkhart, nurse, vs. Dr. Justin L. Mitchell. She asked $25,000 for five kisses. She said the physician had implanted on her "arms, face, neck and shoulders." Neither party loved the other. But a jury gave Miss Benkhart $20,000, or $4,000 a kiss. Verdict upheld.

Judge David, sitting in the local Superior Court, has officially pronounced the law has no right to set a price on love.

He made this fact known when setting aside a $7,500 verdict which a "too free panel," had granted Mrs. Beatrice A. Kullen in a breach of promise case.

Which perhaps is one of the reasons why, during the past three weeks, more than 25 pending breach of promise suits, asking damages totalling close to $200,000, have been settled quietly out of court.

$11,000 RAISED TOWARD $50,000 'GYM' AT COLLEGE

First Day's Reports Show Optimism For Success By Friday

Reports on Monday from nine organizations which are taking part in the student drive for $50,000 at Lawrence college for a new gymnasium, amounted to $11,100. Eight organizations which had already begun work on the drive were not able to make reports at the end of the first day.

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity reported $2100 as a result of the solicitation of about 60 per cent of the members. Fifteen members of Kappa Delta sorority pledged $1150, while nine Adelpheis members pledged $650. The campaign is coming along splendidly and there is a spirit of rivalry among the groups. The canvass will continue until Friday when the goal will probably be reached.

CLEVER WOMEN TO BE FUTURE BANDITS

Rough Stickup Men Will Give Way To Vamps Armed With Revolvers

Special To Post-Crescent
Chicago—Women will be the bandit of the future.

Instead of the movie type of desperado with sweater and unshaven face, a chic young miss, faultlessly tailored, will shove her pearl-handled automatic under your nose and relieve you of your roll.

All this is coming if we continue to divert woman's normal maternal instinct into the wrong channels, warns Miss Elizabeth Carter, eminent psychologist here.

Drawing on actual cases to illustrate, Miss Carter points to Julia Hartnett and Elizabeth ("Honey") Sullivan, two girls recently arrested here for complicity in the operations of a new type of criminal organization—the sheik band.

Miss Sullivan's reign as queen of a dapper-dressed band of youths whom she spurred on with her six-shooter, has gained her an indeterminate 10-year prison term which she is now serving.

"The Hartnett girl is under indictment on a charge of receiving stolen property."

"The inference to be gathered," Miss Carter says, "is that both the Sullivan and Hartnett girls approached a point on the road which made them want to turn back."

"This is revealed by their turning state's evidence in each instance. It proves they were not innately bad, but made so by circumstances."

"Both were suffering from unsatisfied social desires. Each wanted a beau."

"The Sullivan girl, when arrested, told of being inducted into the gang by her own sweetheart, its leader."

"The Hartnett girl was also ensnared by improper analysis of her feelings for a certain member of her gang. She thought she loved him."

"There, you have two expressions of the maternal instinct over-exaggerated leading to—misinterpretation, a life of crime and social ruin."

NEED WATCHING
"It is girls like these who must be carefully watched during adolescence."

"Over-stimulation of the sex interest during the plastic stage of youth later directs the natural good which should flow from that source into channels capable of doing untold harm."

"It has a tendency to misdirect maternal instinct. The cure lies solely in prevention with responsibility placed entirely on the parent."

"Most girls, however, who find themselves slipping into erotic lives are righted before the time is too late."

"Natural tendency of the impulse, probably instilled by the Creator for moral safety of the race, is to go along decent paths. That's why there are so few confirmed bad women."

The food value of butter, is said to be higher in summer during grass feeding than in winter when cows are given roots and hay.

THE LEEDS BANK ROBBERY

SIR NORMAN CONTINUES

"With pleasure," I assented. "At ten o'clock." "I will be in the clubhouse," I promised him. "We go to bed, up here," he remarked. "Practically with the sun." I rose to my feet. I took my leave, and as I walked down the drive, with the yellow moon shining through the sparse trees, I felt the ghosts of tragedy gathering.

At five minutes to ten on the following morning I watched Mr. James Stanfield pass open his private gate leading onto the links and stroll across toward the clubhouse. I waved my hand and stepped back into the locker-room. Three or four men in tweeds and golfing outfit were waiting there. In five minutes my prospective opponent entered. In five seconds the handcuffs were upon his wrists, and one of the three apparent golfers had the matter in hand.

"You are charged," he said, "with feloniously wounding William Harrell, manager, and John Stokes, clerk, of Brown's Bank in the Menwood Roads, Leeds, and with stealing from the premises the sum of seven thousand pounds. I should recommend you to come with us quietly, and to reserve for the present anything you may have to say."

Looking at him as he stood leaning a little against his own locker, I could have sworn that there was no manner of change in the face or expression of my enemy. He ignored the others and looked across at me. "This is your doing?" he asked. "Altogether," I admitted. "You knew it last night?" "It was you who reminded me that I need not take salt," I replied. He nodded.

"The trick is to you," he confessed. "I am ready gentlemen." He walked quietly out to a waiting motorcar, with a burly policeman on either side of him, and a very important man from Scotland Yard in the party. Rimmington and I were left behind, and presently we essayed a round of golf. All the time my eyes kept straying toward the Lodge. No sign, however, came from there.

"I still," Rimmington remarked, as we waited for a few minutes on the tenth tee, "don't quite understand how you tumbled to this affair so quickly." "It was quite easy when you once admit the possibility of the occupants of the Dartier car being concerned," I replied. "Of course, Roberson was in it up to the eyes. It was Stanfield who drove up in Roberson's Ford and went direct to the bank. The Dartier car was already there containing Janet Stanfield and Roberson, wearing a gray Homburg hat and a linen duster. The chauffeur brought into the store a small order which the grocer's assistant marked and took out. The chauffeur was taking advantage of the delay to fill up with petrol. The moment Stanfield descended from the Ford and made his way to the bank, Roberson slipped off his linen duster, produced a Panama hat which he pulled over his eyes and made his purchases in the shop. He came out just as Stanfield reappeared and drove the Ford away. Stanfield just stepped into the Dartier, put on his linen duster and gray Homburg hat, and off they started. The idea was to confuse, and at first it succeeded. The whole affair was ingenious, from the selection of that particular bank, which is wickedly isolated, to the exact location of the Dartier car, which made anyone on the off-side almost invisible."

"It's pretty generous of you to let me take the credit of this," Rimmington remarked. "If Stanfield turns out to be Pugsley, and Pugsley the man I believe him to be," I said, "I shall need no other reward than the joy of having brought him to book."

"Do you believe him to be Michael Evers?" Rimmington asked. "I am absolutely certain of it," I answered. "We completed our round, lunched and played again. There came no sign from the Lodge. Somehow or other, the silence seemed to me ominous. Toward evening I began to get uneasy. Just as we were sitting down to dinner, I was fetched to the telephone."

"Inspector McCall speaking," the voice I heard declared. "Are you Sir Norman Greyes?" "Yes," I answered. "Have you heard the news?" "I have heard no particular news since early this morning," I replied. "Stanfield escaped eleven miles from here," the Inspector declared gloomily. "Escaped? Ridiculous!" I exclaimed.

"He did it, anyhow. He shot both his guards with an automatic pistol fixed in the sole of one shoe and worked with the toe of the other. Mr. Gorman, from Scotland Yard, is seriously wounded, and one of the others is shot in the leg. Stanfield then threatened the driver, until he released him from the handcuffs and took him to within a mile of a railway station. There he tied the man up, drove the car on himself and disappeared. So far we have no news."

I could make no intelligible reply. I muttered something to the effect that Rimmington and I would come on to the police station the first thing in the morning. Then I walked outside, a little giddy, sick at heart, furious with myself and Fate. I stood looking toward the Lodge until at last I yielded to an irresistible impulse. I hastened across the few yards of heather-grown common, crossed the road, made my way up the straggling avenue and rang the great front-door bell. Presently the huge door swung silently open. Janet stood there, looking out at me.

I freely admit that I lost my nerve. I lost my poise and with it all the gifts which enable a man to face an exceptional situation. For this woman showed no signs of any mental disturbance. I had never seen her look more beautiful. She moved away from the door. "Come in," she invited. "I have been expecting you."

Our footsteps awakened strange echoes in the hall. She led the way into the sitting-room, which opened onto the terrace, and sank back on the divan, where apparently she had been resting. "Tudus," she murmured. "You know, then?" I demanded harshly. "Everything—even the last little episode. What fools you policemen are!"

"He isn't safe yet," I muttered. She laughed mockingly. "I worry no more about him," she declared. "It is not an equal struggle. I worry only about myself, alone here."

"Alone—here?" I echoed. She nodded. "Harding, our butler-chauffeur and confederate, has taken the car—where you can guess. Our gille broke his leg this morning and has gone to hospital. I am not afraid of burglars, but I am terrified of mice. And the place is overrun with them. Also I simply loathe the idea of having to get up and make my own coffee in the morning."

I rose to my feet. "There are empty rooms at the Dormy House," I told her, "where you could obtain service and be made quite comfortable. I am going back now. Shall I bespeak one for you?"

"You would really have me there?" she asked curiously, "under the same roof as your august and respectable self?"

"Why not?"

"The wife of a famous criminal," she reminded me, "the wife of the man whom you have betrayed? You and I share a secret too, don't we? Would you vouch for my respectability?"

I moved a step toward her. Her eyes were filled with a mingled light, a light of allurements and cruelty. Her lips were moist and quivering—as it were with anxiety. A long bare arm was withdrawn from behind her head. Then a voice fell upon the throbbing silence like a douche of cold water. "Hands up—like lightning!"

I obeyed. I recognized the voice of the man in Harding's livery. It was Stanfield, who had crept in upon us unobserved. "A mixture of Lothario and Inspector Bucket," he mocked. "Any prayers to say?"

"If you are going to shoot, let's have it over quickly," I answered. The woman stepped between us. "Don't be absurd," she said to the newcomer. "We couldn't afford to part with Sir Norman. Life would be too dull without him. Put him on parole. He is perfectly trustworthy."

"You are right," Stanfield admitted. "Take your choice, Greyes—twelve hours' silence, or Eternity."

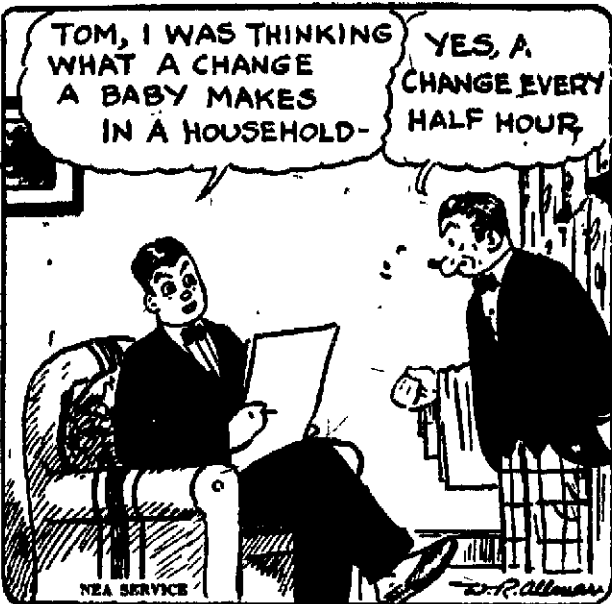

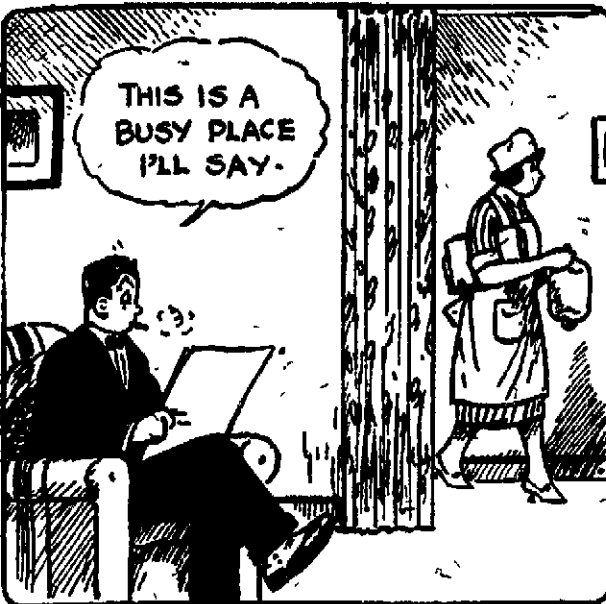

"I will be silent for twelve hours," I promised.

He pointed to the door. "I cannot have the last few hours I may ever spend with my wife disturbed," he said. "Kindly leave us."

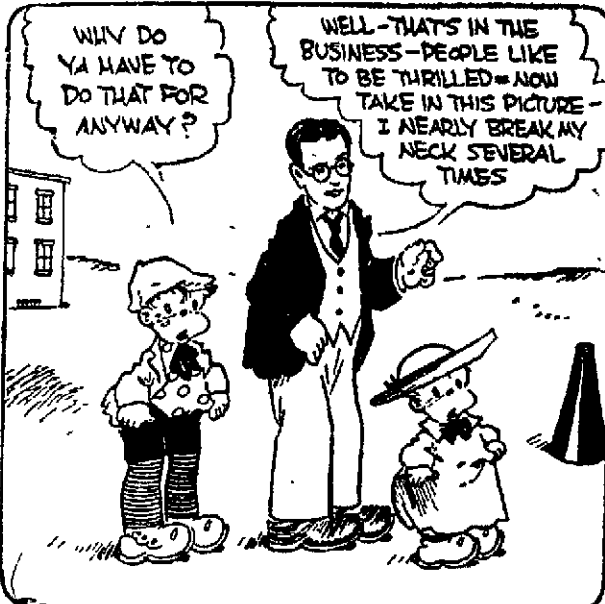

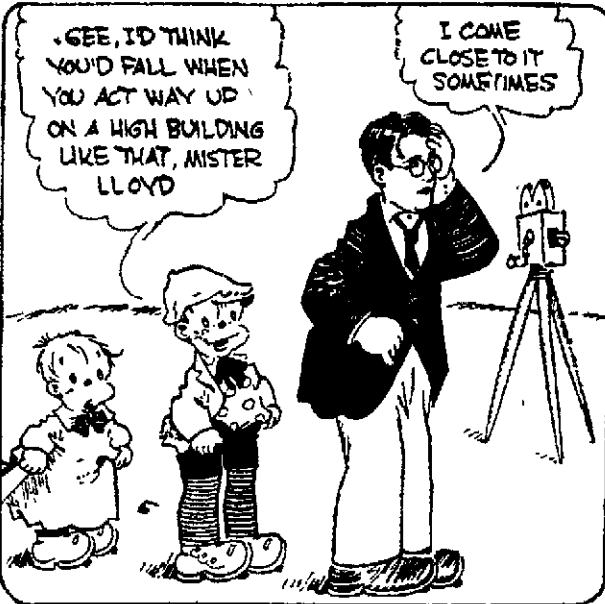

I went. There was a mist before my eyes, a cloud before my brain. Rimmington was sitting on the porch, smoking, when I got back. He moved his head toward the Lodge. It was obvious from his dejection that he too had heard from McCall. "What do you think about taking a look around there?" he suggested. "Quite useless," I replied tersely. "Let's have a game of billiards and try and forget the whole damned business."

"The Honor of M. Lutarde," fourth story of this remarkable series, will begin in our next issue.

Stars Tell Us What Styles Will Be For 40 Years

BY MARIAN HALE

In these days of changing colors, varying hems and shifting waistlines, it seems to most women as if a sixth sense were necessary to foresee, with any degree of accuracy, what styles are going to develop in the course of six months.

She sees it written in the stars!

TWO NEW STARS
Laurel Miller, however, says she can see what's in store for us during the next four decades.

"At present," she says, "we're under the influence of stars whose position makes them dictate our affairs" trend for the coming 40 years. "These stars are causing us to uncover all obscure things and to dig deep into the earth for hidden treasures."

ONLY A BEGINNING
The latest Egyptian discoveries were only a beginning.

"And every fresh discovery is going to leave its imprint of styles just as Egyptian influence is making itself felt now."

"We're going to find long-forgotten colors, jewels and designs that have lain hidden for centuries inside the earth."

"For 40 years we're going to live in an atmosphere of antiquity."

"These influences won't come from Egypt and the east alone."

"Old Indian relics will be brought out of Mexico and South America."

WON'T REPLACE SMARTNESS
But, of course, they'll pass through French and American designers' hands before the come to us. Antiquity never will replace smartness, chit."

"The stars will have their effect on our art and drama, too."

"Nor will the work of excavation go on in the earth alone. Psychic phenomenon and spiritual truths will be revealed, as well, and there will be a tendency to popularize mysticism, magic and all the occult sciences."

Household Suggestions

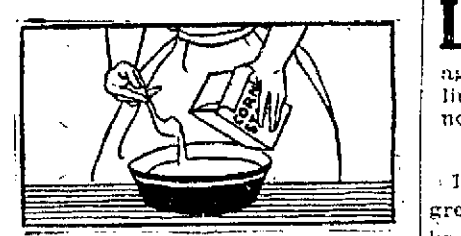

THREADING YOUR NEEDLE

If you thread your needle before breaking off the thread from the spool you will have no annoying tangles to bother with.

WITH THE IRON

A good way to press delicate fabrics is to dampen a paper and lay it over the material. Then press with a hot iron.

KEEPS CAKE LIGHT

If you add corn starch to your cake it isn't so likely to fall.

KEEPS OFF RUST

A few drops of linseed oil applied with a brush to the outside of the gas stove or the inside of the oven will keep the stove from rusting and make it easier to care for.

TAKES OUT GREASE

When grease is spilled on the rug you can remove it by covering the spot with a piece of blotting paper and going over it with a hot iron. The blotting paper will absorb the grease.

WHEN HEMSTITCHING

When hemstitching linen you will find the threads more elastic to pull if you run a damp piece of cloth along the line where the thread is to be pulled. The dampness makes the thread leave the cloth very willingly.

APPLE WILL HELP

Put a sound apple in your cake box. It will keep the cake moist and tender.

USE THE SCALES

Always weigh for measure the ingredients you use in cooking. Accuracy is most important.

LINGERIE

Black embroidery is seen on some of the newest lingerie. It is particularly effective on apricot or blue. A night gown of Nile green satin is given distinction by its trimmings of yellow satin roses.

CARE OF EYES

You can do much to improve the beauty of your eyes if you take care of the lashes and brows. Brush them each night with an eyebrow brush and, if they are thin, use a suggestion of vaseline or olive oil.

CAMEL'S HAIR

The suit of tan camel's hair is going to be very popular for spring. It is light in weight as well as in tone, and is an extremely youthful style.

DEAUVILLE SCARF IS POPULAR

BY MARIAN HALE

The most distinctive novelty of this season—a good many seasons, in fact—is the colorful Deauville scarf. Deauville, as you doubtless know, is the great French summer resort—one of the gayest, one of the most expensive, one of the most fashionable in Europe.

It was at Deauville, you may remember, that King Alfonso of Spain spent a lot of time last season dancing with any number of pretty girls, giving an expensive brooch to each of those he favored thus—making himself so popular, indeed, that this year his advisers said they'd rather he stayed at home—his cutting around had attracted a little too much attention.

FOR SPORTS WEAR

Anyway, the Deauville scarf first appeared at this famed resort—originally intended for sports wear.

But it was too much of a success to be limited, in its activities, to any time, place or style of frock, and today it's featured in connection with evening gowns, afternoon attire, house dresses and even kimono.

It's added pep and dash to the dull costumes women had accepted for business wear and it's relieved the deadly monotony of the collarless necktie.

Naturally there are bound to be variations, so it isn't surprising to find ribbon being used decoratively in a manner which the scarf plainly inspired.

SAVE YOUR FROCK

The photographs will give you suggestions that may enable you to save the old frock you'd intended to discard, evolving a snappy Easter costume from it instead, by the purchase of a few yards of ribbon and the expenditure of a little ingenuity.

To make the ribbon fichu (lower right) you need three yards of taffeta ribbon, preferably figured, doubled over with a loop knot in the very center and then the doubled pieces stitched together for half a yard, then knotted again. One end is drawn through the loop knot and the other's used to make the bow or knot that ties it.

At the upper left is shown an adjustable drape that may be used about the neck or hips, as you please. To make it, two pieces of ribbon are mitered to make a corner—one piece about a yard long with a double knot or loop in it through which the other end, about three-fourths of a yard, slips.

FORE AND AFT

The upper right and lower left are fore and aft views of the same arrangement of the scarf. Four pieces of wide ribbon are mitered together by double hemstitching or fagoting. The opening formed by the pieces must be large enough to slip easily over the head. Once on, the scarf may be worn as a square or it can be pulled around so that one point comes down in front, with both shoulders and the back adorned with the other points. The shoulder points may be knotted or only one point tied. The clever girl can make her own adjustments.

FINNAN HADDIE, SCOTCH STYLE

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Soak a two pound finnan haddie in boiling water, to cover, for 30 minutes. Drain and place, if possible, on a platter which can be put in the oven and also sent to the table.

Cover the fish with a sauce consisting of two cups of milk, a fourth of a cup each of butter and flour, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt and an eighth teaspoon of pepper.

Wash, pare and halve six potatoes, place the halves against the fish and the potatoes are soft. Baste with the sauce around the fish several times during cooking.

Sprinkle with two tablespoons of chopped parsley and serve at once.

POTATO AND EGG SALAD

Cut three cups of cold boiled potatoes into small cubes. Finely chop two hard boiled eggs. Cut two pinches into small dice. Thinly slice a small onion, or if a bunch of young green ones should be used, take two or three inches of the green stalks. Mix all the ingredients together, with two tablespoons of chopped parsley, a teaspoon of salt and a little pepper to taste, add a cup of cooked salad dressing, and serve in a bowl lined with lettuce leaves, in a nest of the leaves.

SHAPLEIGH

bake all for 40 minutes, or until the potatoes are soft. Baste with the sauce around the fish several times during cooking.

Sprinkle with two tablespoons of chopped parsley and serve at once.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Twins Visit Mars

Away to Mars went the Twins to hunt for Mother Goose's lost broom.

Mars is a star, a big red one, and you can see it most any night when the moon isn't too bright, or the clouds too thick, or the air too foggy.

Well—that's where the Twins went. The first person they saw was a square man who stared at them in a most unmannerly way.

"Hello!" called Nick. "Is this Mars?"

"Yes," answered the square man in a jerky voice.

"Well, we're hunting for Mother Goose's broom," Nick told him. "Did you see it?"

"Once," answered the square man stiffly.

"Was it lately?" asked Nancy eagerly.

"Yes," answered the man. "Only about a hundred years ago. She swept a cobweb off my left eyebrow. I wish she would come back. There's another cobweb on my right eyebrow and one, I fear, in each of my ears. I can't hear as well as I did a thousand years ago."

"Goodness alive!" gasped Nick. "A thousand years?"

"Gracious!" exclaimed Nancy. "Are you as old as that?"

"Older!" said the square man gravely. "About a million. I'm only stone now. When I'm two million I'll turn to iron."

"And what will you do when you're three million?" asked Nick.

"I forget," said the man. "I'll have to ask somebody. Perhaps I'll just dry up and blow away."

"This is a queer place," declared Nancy. "Is everybody like you, poor thing?"

"No," said the square man. "We're all different."

Cerise red sports hats are second in popularity now only to those of brilliant purple. In blues, there are some very soft delicate tones as well as the fashionable but trying blue-green.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as soon as Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mento-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Ewles Mento-Sulphur and use it like cold cream. adv.

LETTER FROM SIDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRECOTT MY DEAR JACK:

I was quite surprised at your news as you had not mentioned to me before the lady whom you are to wed. Are you sure it's a go this time? You know you have informed me so many times that you had met the one and only girl that I shall never feel you are safely married until I form one of the procession that follows you down the church door from the chancel rail.

If you really mean it this time, old chap, I certainly will be your best man, and will try and get away to go with you to Sharon for the week of the pre-festivities. I ought to do this much for my best friend.

I can't help wondering just what that little Paula Perier is going to do? You know you've had a bad case on with her for a long time, my boy. I'm seriously afraid she will cut up rough, aren't you? However, all such things have an end, you know, and possibly she will take it philosophically. But you certainly were very much interested in her.

Of course I know she is the most beautiful, the sweetest, the dearest and the most wonderful girl in all the world, but you have told me that before many times, Jack. I suppose there comes into every man's life at last one woman who shuts out all past loves, and makes future ones very difficult.

I am anxious to see your paragon, and I am buying a new long-tailed coat purposely for the event. Do you want me to wear white spats? I'll even do that for you, long time.

You know we often wondered in our college days which one of us would be the first to marry. Honestly, Jack, I'm glad it's you, for I'm not ready to give up my liberty just yet, not for the "most wonderful girl in all the world."

By the way, how does that young protegee of your mother's, Priscilla Bradford take it? I always had a notion that Priscilla, with your mother's abetting and help, would corral you, my boy. I'm glad she didn't, for honestly, she was kind of a pain don't you think?

I'll see you soon, Jack, for I have a business engagement which will take me over to Albany soon, and I am anxious to know how you made your farewells to the little Paula.

So long, SYDNEY.

• LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRECOTT TO SIDNEY CARTON •

MY DEAR SYD:

You can bet it's a go this time, and I want to say to you what I would not say to anyone else, that I'm awfully sorry about all those other girls. Now, don't grin, I don't mean I'm sorry for them, for they were probably playing the game just as I was, but I'm sorry that I haven't something to give to Leslie that I never have given or, at least, never pretended to give to any other girl before.

This love game, Syd, is a good deal of a bluff, you know. I'd like to dance with this girl, we like to take with that girl, we like to buy flowers for another, and kiss still another, but when we find the real girl, the girl that we like to dance and talk with, and buy flowers for, and kiss—

Lunch Of Cocoa And Gingerbread

A lunch of gingerbread and cocoa is not to be sneezed at.

One woman recently served this simple but appetizing combination as her only refreshment at a foursome of bridge. The recipes she used were a bit different from those found in the everyday cook book, and her smartest linens and china appeared.

GLORIFIED GINGERBREAD
Mix half a cupful of butter, a cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of flour. Add a flavoring of cinnamon or other spice and a pinch of salt. Set aside a cupful of the dry mixture. To what remains add one egg, two tablespoonfuls of molasses, and a cupful of sour milk in which a teaspoonful of baking soda has been dissolved. If there is no sour milk, use a cupful of cream milk with a teaspoonful of soda and a tablespoonful of vinegar stirred into it. Beat the cake mixture thoroughly and pour it into a baking tin; then crumble the dry mixture over the surface and spread it evenly with the back of a large spoon. Bake the whole mixture in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

NEW FANGLED COCOA
Mix thoroughly four level teaspoonfuls of cocoa, four of sugar, two of cornstarch and a seasoning of salt. To that dry mixture add slowly, stirring as you add, a cupful and a half of hot water. After the ingredients are well mixed, put the liquid on the stove and, stirring it as it thickens, let it boil for five minutes or more. Heat four cupfuls of rich milk in a separate saucepan, combine it with the prepared cocoa. Top each cupful with whipped cream. This recipe makes four cups.

Your Health is at Stake if You Suffer from Constipation!

Every man, woman and child who has constipation or constipation symptoms should leave no stone unturned to get instant relief! Keep away from the dangers of pills and cathartics, which are almost as much to be dreaded as constipation itself. Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN—and it is Kellogg's Bran that will give permanent relief if eaten regularly.

Most cases of Bright's and diabetes can be traced to constipation; in its milder form constipation is responsible for sick headache, nausea, pimples, sour breath, etc. And, we say right here—and guarantee what we say—that Kellogg's Bran, if eaten regularly, will give you permanent relief.

Kellogg's Bran is wonderful as a food as well as wonderful as a natural means of relieving constipation. Kellogg's Bran contains important mineral salts; it contains elements that are necessary in making bone, tissue and blood—yet, it acts as a sweeper, cleanser and purifier.

Eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal. You'll enjoy its nut-like flavor. Or, sprinkle it on or mix it with hot or cold cereals. Many like it cooked with hot cereals. Two tablespoonfuls of bran should be added in each instance. You have missed much not to have eaten Kellogg's Bran made into muffins, raisin bread or many other bakery batches. Recipes on every package. Prominent hotels, restaurants and clubs serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran.

Appleton high school basketball team Tuesday is journeying to Madison where beginning Wednesday it will do battle for honors of the state.

The Blue and Orange, consisting of the five regulars, three subs and Coach A. C. Denney and Athletic Manager Leon C. High, departed for the state capital in the afternoon. Due to the inclement weather it was unknown when they will reach the state capital.

TEAM RECOVERS
The team was fairly recovered although Monday it was feared that Heide-man, the stellar forward, was unable to make the journey. The Blue and Orange will play its first game beginning 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the Wisconsin high five of Madison. Appleton will play the first game of the tourney. The selection of the Madison school as its opponent was the result of an alphabetical arrangement. In the Madison outfit Appleton will meet one of the strongest teams in the tournament. The university preps are made up of veterans with a fellow by the name of Stehr being a shooting star. However, Coach Denney will have a team that is regarded to be as one of the possible winners in the state tourney.

The title of champions was bestowed by Coach Denney upon Stammer, Captain, Bowley, Wenzel, Jordan, Teetz, D. Hyde, Peterman and Uebelacher. Honorable mention for playing well to Bloomer, Bowley, House, K.K. Pack and Green.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Well, Siki escaped with his life, any way even if Mike McTigue was given the decision in the St. Patrick's day battle in Ireland. Any fighter who tries to lick an Irishman in his native haunts on the seventeenth of March deserves a lot of credit. With bomb-bursting outside and soldiers guarding the ring with bayonets, it must have been quite a battle scene. We won't know that Siki even ventured out at all. Maybe he didn't know what it was all about or else thought they were celebrating for him.

The stage is all set for the state scholastic basketball tournament which opens in Madison on Wednesday. Sixteen of the best teams in the state will compete for the championship. Included in the list are several quintets from this part of the state and the dopesters are figuring that at least one of the northeastern Wisconsin squads will be fighting it out in the final contest.

The wood is falling heavily in the national pin classic at Milwaukee and unless all signs fail some corking good scores, possibly records, will be marked up before the curtain is pulled down at the greatest alley meet in the history of bowling. The attack in the singles over Sunday showed some classy counts and it wouldn't be surprising if a 700 plus total is recorded in this event.

Johnny Nikol didn't like the idea of striking Bar (C) for a short notice and he passed up the offer of the Green Bay Boxing club to meet with the Kansas "Parson" in Green Bay on Friday night. However, Conley will be seen in action as one of the crack scrappers of the Collins-Gibbons stable will be sent into action against Conley.

Another sign of spring. Baseball gossip is picking up. "Bull" Durham has signed with Oshkosh. Jay Barben is going to manage Fond du Lac and Bauugan, the former Kaukauna baseballman, will run the club here. Joe Nagel is still dickering with Marlin ette-Memominee. It is said that the former Bay manager and the Twin City magnates are having some trouble getting together on salary.

JOE BURMAN WINS OVER JOE LYNCH

Chicago—Boxing came back to Chicago with a bang Monday night when in the first program offered publicly since the Terry McGovern-Joe Gans fracas nearly two decades ago, Joe Burman, Chicago, won a newspaper decision over Joe Lynch, New York, the bantamweight champion of the world in ten rounds.

More than 10,000 boxing fans paid $48,000 and every seat still was filled when the two Joe's finished their bout well after midnight. Their bout was the fourth ten rounder of an all star card.

The coffers of the Blackhawk post of the American legion and the campaign fund of William E. Dever, Democratic candidate for Mayor of Chicago, shared equally in the net proceeds of the contest.

Girls are said to beat boys in the study of modern languages, English literature, music and technical ability, but not in creative work and history, or in originality.

JOSEPH JONES

Milwaukee—The American Bowling congress had a little extra work laid out for it when it opened its national tourney here. One of those jobs like Pershing's—bestowing medals.

Joe Jones, a local bowler, was the recipient of the medal in recognition of his having rolled a perfect 300 score. Jones entered the bowling Hall of Fame in a contest game at Pichta's alleys here on Feb. 23.

Jones is the fourth Milwaukee bowler to roll a perfect score this season. Jimmie Smith, George Stoehr and Carl Kreuger have all bowled 300 and are to receive A. B. C. medals.

Veteran Tennis Stars Shine On Southern Courts

It takes warm weather to thaw out the veterans whether it be in baseball, golf or tennis.

During the past month a number of tennis tournaments have been staged at the leading winter resorts in Florida. In most of these tournaments the two outstanding figures have been Beak Wright and William A. Larned. Recently Wright captured Bahama championship at Nassau.

A quarter of a century ago Beak Wright won the interscholastic championship of the United States. He once won the national singles, and three times has been on the winning national doubles team.

William A. Larned has stood the test of tournament play for 20 years. Few tennis players have been ranked in the first 10 of the country more often than Larned.

Larned came into prominence as a tennis star in 1902 and he is still going good, able to show the way to many aspiring youngsters.

Sunny Florida seems to have thawed out these veteran tennis stars, giving them a new lease on life.

BULGARIA IN FAVOR OF MARRIED LEGISLATORS

Sofia—An effort is being made in Bulgaria to exclude unmarried men from the national parliament. Only heads of families may be candidates according to the proposed measure.

WOLPIN WANTS TO GET ON NEXT FIGHT CARD IN APPLETON

Middleweight Scrapper Eager To Fight Either Quinn Or Clabby

William Wolpin, the middleweight fighter, who pleased the fans in his first and only appearance in Appleton, is begging for another chance in an Appleton ring. He has written Elmer Johnston, promoter for the Midwest Athletic club that he challenges any middleweight in the world, but prefers to take on either Gunner Joe Quinn or Jimmy Clabby. Wolpin claims that he entered the ring against Duffy under a great handicap inasmuch as he was snowbound for almost a day trying to reach Appleton.

There is quite a good deal of sentiment here in favor of placing Wolpin on the next card and it is known that Johnston is considering him.

Wolpin's letter to Johnston follows: "I regret very much that I wasn't given consideration on your last fight card, but trust you will not overlook me on your next."

"I hereby issue a challenge to any man of my weight in the world to meet me in this city, preferably Gunner Joe Quinn or Jimmy Clabby. I do not claim to be the champion, but I do claim to be a fighter as you know I telephoned you late in the afternoon of the fight asking you to call off the fight. After spending a day in a cold train and a night in a still colder Junction depot with a couple of cold sandwiches, with little or no rest, I arrived here about 7:30 a.m. from the cold. The doctor was obliged to sit around the radiator before he could get it."

"No man in my condition could expect to do any fighting. If you can place either Quinn or Clabby to meet me here I will redeem myself in the estimation of the fans of Appleton. Will you let me prove to you and the fans of this city that I am the master of either of these boys?"

Appleton is my home and I promise my friends that I will be in the best possible condition (weather permitting) for my next fight."

SPIRIT OF PONZI GOES ON IN BOSTON

Boston — The spirit of Ponzi goes marching on, and Boston is alarmed. For charges are being made that Boston, city of wisdom and culture and heavy intellect, is actually "the biggest sucker city in America."

Goldbricks are just as easy to sell as ever, according to a report made to the legislature by the Joint Committee on Banking Laws.

And William G. Thompson, of the Boston Bar Association, adds this indictment: "Not one man in 50 in this city is fit to serve on the grand jury."
